District Farm Family of Year named

Linvilles named District Farm Family of Year

The farmer's image in the eyes of the American public is at its lowest ebb in years, and the image will get worse if farmers don't support research and farm organizations cannot unify in support of a farm program, Flake L. McHaney of Kennett, Circuit Court judge of the 35th judicial district, told almost 100 listeners Friday night at the Farmers Home Administration's Farm Family of the Year banquet at Ramada Inn.

Prior to McHaney's remarks, six county farm families of the year were introduced and the district farm family of the year was announced. Mr. and Mrs. Amos Linville of Campbell Route One were named District Farm Family of the Year. They will now compete in the state contest.

County Farm Families of the Year included:

Scott County, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Webb of Sikeston Route Four; Stoddard County, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Robinett of Bloomfield Route Three; New Madrid County, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Coleman of Gideon; Pemiscot County, Mr. and Mrs. Winfred F. Carver of Bragg City Route One; and Butler County, Mr. and Mrs. Garland C. Boswell of Harviell Route One.

The Linvilles own 480 acres and rent 80 acres used mostly for row crops, although they do have a few beef cows. Linville cleared most of the land he now owns and farms. The respect of his neighbors was demonstrated when they selected him to accompany the attorney representing farmers in the area on a trip to Washington to seek relief after the flood in 1965.

The district contest was sponsored by the Missouri Farmers Association.

In his speech following the family of the year presentation, McHaney called on farmers to support research projects and for unification of support of farm programs by farm organizations.

He said that farmers are being blamed for the great increase in food prices, and not a voice is being raised in opposition.

The modern supermarket is a small department store and the food dollar is going for items other than food, which causes an apparent increase in the food dollar, McHaney noted.

"In 1972, 28 per cent of supermarket sales had no relation to food," McHaney

$70,000 approved for airport work

The Ozark Regional Planning Commission has announced the approval of $70,000 in funds for the improvement of the Sikeston Memorial Airport.

The project will cost $280,000 for the first phase of construction, which will include resurfacing the runway and taxiway, paving the crosswind runway, and lighting the main runway.

The second phase, to be done at a later date, will cost about $145,000. It will include the acquisition of additional land and the extension of the main runway.

Work on the project should begin in August, after all the red tape has been cleared, according to City Manager Jim Huff.

Cost of the project, $425,000, and the required local funds of $117,500 are both far above the original estimates which placed the cost at $225,000, with the city putting up $22,500 in local funds.

The city has applied for $140,000 in funds from the Federal Aviation Administration and will receive $25,000 in state funds.

The city must supply $45,000 for the first phase of construction. The money will come out of the airport fund and the general revenue fund, according to Huff.

Huff said the airport project was split into two phases to speed up the work. He said the land acquisition and runway extension involves a 45 day waiting period while the environmental impact of the project is considered.

The Planning and Zoning Commission in its revenue - expenditure study estimated the cost of the project at only $225,000. It estimated federal funds would total $202,500 and the cost to the city and airport fund would be only $22,500.

However, while costs were underestimated, outside sources will supply more funds than estimated. FAA will supply $212,500, the ORC $70,000 and the state $25,000. The city will have to supply $117,500.

Huff said preliminary figures on the project were too low, because some of the figures were underestimated and some were based on paving standards that had to be revised, raising the cost of the project.

The increased cost of the airport project may imperil some of the items on the expenditure revenue study. Huff said the cost "will have to be considered" when the city council decides what municipal improvement programs the city should undertake. No decisions have yet been made, Huff said.

Taylor bound over on rape charge

NEW MADRID — Charles Taylor, 50, of Matthews Friday was bound over to Circuit Court on a statutory rape charge following a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Probate Judge John Bailey, who served in the absence of Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

Taylor is accused by his 15- year - old stepdaughter of fathering her unborn child, resulting from intercourse with her in August 1972 at the family home.

The girl, who now lives on Holcomb Route One, said she had sex relations with her stepfather for the first time about a week after her 15th birthday and again about a week later. The family then lived in Matthews.

Under cross - examination by Taylor's court- appointed attorney, she denied having sex relations with a man named Sam Taylor who stayed for about a week in a small building next to the girl's home while her stepfather worked on the man's truck.

She said she had reached the eighth grade in school, had no boy friends and had not had sex relations with anyone except her stepfather.

Lowell Huls of Matthews, a plumber and electrician who had employed Taylor part-time, testified for the defense. He said he had heard the girl say she had intercourse with Sam Taylor. Her statement was made, he said, in the presence of her stepfather and her brothers.

Huls further stated he had never heard the girl say she had intercourse with Charles Taylor.

Taylor is being held under $2,500 bond.

Shooting suspect jailed

EAST PRAIRIE — Gary Wayne Woods, 28, of East Prairie is being held in Mississippi County Jail in Charleston in connection with the shooting death of Manuel Hollis Gilliam, 37, of Matthews Route One. Murder charges are expected to be filed today.

The shooting occurred about 12:45 a.m. today outside of PeeWee's Tavern, near the north city limits.

According to Sheriff W. J. (Pedro) Simmons, witnesses said Woods and Gilliam had been arguing inside the tavern over who could whip whom. The argument continued outside after the tavern closed. Woods, reportedly was sitting in his truck when he pointed a .22 caliber pistol out the window and shot Gilliam once in the left side of the chest. Gilliam was pronounced dead at the scene by Mississippi County Coroner Elgin McMikle.

No formal inquest is scheduled.

Woods left the tavern parking lot and drove to the police station where he informed the radio operator he was going home. He was arrested a short time later at his home by Police Sgt. Llyle Scott and City patrolman Bill Grissom.

Gilliam was born June 16, 1935 in Dorena and was employed by Beck & Plunk farms of Matthews.

On Oct. 28, 1956 he married Barbara Miller, who survives.

Also surviving are four daughters, Evelyn, Cynthia, Laura and Elaine Gilliam, all of the home; his father, Ted Gilliam of Dorena; his mother, Mrs. Alta Mae Hardley of Whitt, Tex.; one brother, James Gilliam of Blythe, Calif.; one half brother, Teddy Gilliam of Dorena and two half sisters, Mrs. Peggy Merryman and Miss Joyce Gilliam of Dorena.

Visitation will be after 6 p.m. today in Shelby Funeral Home in East Prairie where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Sunday. The Rev. Robert Cates, pastor of the Little Vine Baptist Church will officiate.

Burial will be in East Prairie Memorial Park Cemetery.

Man shot at Grant City

Ardean (Smokey) Johnson of Route One was reportedly shot early this morning at the home of Calvin Bell of Grant City, according to Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman.

Johnson was treated and released from Missouri Delta Community Hospital for a 16-gauge shotgun wound in the chest. His wounds were not considered serious.

Inman said Johnson's wife reportedly left him and went to Bell's house two miles east of Grant City. Johnson allegedly went to get her and was shot by Bell during an argument.

Inman said no arrests have been made thus far.

Theft suspect is arrested

Police arrested Robert L. Blackman, 21, of Benton Route One at 2 a.m. today on charges of stealing a motor vehicle after he was stopped while driving a pickup truck owned by Larry Lance of Benton Route One.

Patrolman Leslie Dubose stopped Blackman just three minutes after Sikeston received a call from Lance that his pickup had been stolen while parked at Hamilton's Cafe in Haywood City.

Purse stolen

A purse belonging to Mrs. John McMullin, 505 N. Ranney St., was stolen from her car while it was parked at the McMullin home, according to police.

A neighbor saw a young man reach into the car and take the purse about 5:45 p.m., police said. The car was parked on Woodlawn Street at the time.

Mrs. McMullin said the purse contained a charge card, $10 in bills, a $5 check and personal papers.

Temporary job stretched to 31 years of service

By NADINE TOWNSEND

NEW MADRID — Mrs. Evelyn P. Price of Morehouse, clerk for New Madrid County Assessor J. Preston Utterback, is retiring March 30 from a job that began as temporary employment 31 years ago under the federal Works Program Administration.

Mrs. Price recalls that tax collections on much of the real estate in the county used to be impossible before 1942 when real estate was listed by descriptions such as "Jones Piggy Lot in Portageville or designated as the lot south of Mr. Brown near the railroad".

When Judge O. R. Rhodes of Gideon, who was presiding judge of the County Court, heard of a successful real estate card system in use in St. Charles County, he made a trip there to find out about the process. When he returned, he wanted the system in New Madrid County.

Mrs. Price was one of six persons hired under the WPA program to set up a similar system. They worked for two years, she said, preparing file cards containing a legal description and ownership for every tract of land in the county.

She looks back now with amusement as she remembers the jokes, criticism and ridicule made by citizens concerning WPA workers. Many were considered freeloaders on the government payroll.

Yet it was her initiative and dependability on the WPA job that resulted in Judge Rhodes recommending that the county give her full-time employment in the assessor's office following completion of the WPA work.

Today, according to the state tax commission, her card system is the finest and most complete in the state.

When Mrs. Price says, "I have really enjoyed all of my work because it was a challenge to me when I started," it is understandable that New Madrid County has the only alphabetical cross indexed files on real estate transfers in the state.

Modest and unassuming in manner, she said of her retirement, "I just want to slip away unnoticed and without fanfare," but that is hardly possible when she is called upon for assistance by so many persons -- from the small homeowner to bankers, lawyers, realtors, developers and large landowners.

"Evelyn can hear a legal land description and she knows just right where it is in New Madrid County," commented Utterback, with whom she has worked since 1952.

Because of her long familiarity with surveys, plats, deed descriptions and working closely with the county surveyor, a metes and bounds description presents few problems for her in scaling a tract of land which might contain rights- of- way for a railroad, drainage ditch or a river.

Her greatest challenge, perhaps, she said, was working out singlehandedly legal descriptions and ownerships for 4,200 acres from just a sheet of paper containing only a rough outline and directional boundaries. Later she learned this area was to be optioned for St. Jude Industrial Park near Marston, which is now owned by the city of New Madrid.

The number of transfers in farmland ownerships have decreased in recent years. However, Mrs. Price noted that 1972 set a record for total land transfers due to the opening of many small subdivisions in rural areas.

In the past she would spend one day in the recorder of deeds office taking off transactions. Now takeoffs are made daily except for one day a week, but "my work is not as hard because I am furnished photo copies of deeds," she said.

Mrs. Price was born, reared and educated in Morehouse. Her hobbies include flower gardening, needlework and she likes to cook.

Commenting on her retirement, she said, "I hope to be able to do a few things I haven't been able to do over the years. My work always came first in the past 30 years. My main project will be getting settled in a new home after living all these years in the home where I was born -- and I have a new rose bush I am so anxious to get set out."

Without a doubt, that rosebush is going to bloom abundantly.

Wife's testimony will stand in murder case

BENTON — A motion to exclude the testimony of Mrs. Christian Russell in the first- degree murder trial of her husband, Cletus Russell, has been overruled by Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig. Russell is charged with murdering his stepson, Terry Lee Christy, on July 28, 1972.

The motion to exclude Mrs. Russell's testimony was filed on the basis that she is incompetent to testify by reason of her marriage relationship with Russell.

Mrs. Russell has been subpoenaed by the state to appear as a witness against Russell when the trial resumes Friday in Circuit Court.

Judge Craig has had the motion under advisement since March 1 when Russell's defense attorney and Thomas Gilmore, acting as special prosecuting attorney met with the judge to argue the legality of the motion.

Mrs. Russell testified against her husband in a preliminary hearing over the strong objection of Russell's attorney. Gilmore said he had expected the motion to be filed because of the husband- wife relationship, but the state took the position that the normal rule of a wife testifying against her husband did not apply to this situation.

In reaction to the judge's decision, Gilmore said he was pleased the judge is allowing Mrs. Russell to testify because he thought this would allow him to properly present the case to the jury.

Christy, 17, was shot to death about 12:45 p.m. in front of his home, after he and Russell had been scuffling in the front yard. Christy reportedly pushed his stepfather against the house door with enough force to break it.

Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said Russell fired three shots from a .38- caliber pistol, striking Christy twice, once in the left jaw and once in the back.

Mrs. Russell testified in the preliminary hearing that her husband had shot at her during the scuffle while she was running to Christy after Russell had shot him in the jaw. Mrs. Russell also testified that she had been in the front yard along with her husband and son during the argument.

Witnesses for the defense testified that Mrs. Russell was nowhere in sight at the time of the shooting.

Christy was pronounced dead upon arrival at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

THINK 'FIRE
EINGINE YELLOW'

Everybody knows why a fireman wears red suspenders. Many people may not be aware, though, that the traditional red fire engine is on the way out. The recommended color today is bright yellow.

The reason is greater visibility on streets and highways and thus greater safety, especially at night, explains American La France of Elmira, N.Y., one of the world's leading manufacturers of firefighting equipment.

So if anyone ever asks you why a fireman drives a yellow fire engine, tell him: To hold up traffic, of course.

Also, when persons in the Gallup survey were asked whether they thought the courts in their area dealt too harshly with criminals, 74 per cent said not harshly enough. A majority of blacks (64 per cent) shared the same view.

LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE THESE ISSUES

Some measures continue to come up at each session of The Legislature and plague the members of our law- making bodies because they are extremely controversial.

Of these, two stand out in the present session.

One is the Blue Laws, which would prohibit doing business on Sunday, the first day of each week. Many want them repealed, others do not.

Another is public tax-provided financial aid to private and church schools.

In neither case are we being fair to our Legislators to ask them to make the decision, when tempers on both sides run so high in discussions of the proposals.

The people of Missouri should be given the opportunity to vote on both, then whatever the result, they should be allowed to lie dormant for many years.

The Appeal hopes the Legislators vote to put them both on the ballot so that "The will of the people is the supreme law", can be implemented as a fact, instead of fiction, as sometimes happens.

A third measure might be added. That is the proposed law that would authorize a state lottery. Not many people in this area would favor it, but there are many in Missouri who would do so and we think they should be allowed to express their desires.

Federal expenditure control became a major issue in the Congress last year, but the issue was in no way resolved. The issue came to the forefront through President Nixon's urging of Congress that it enact a $250 billion ceiling on fiscal year 1973 spending. Without such a spending ceiling, federal expenditures could well reach $258- 260 billion and result in a highly inflationary deficit exceeding $30 billion. Nevertheless, the House and Senate failed to agree on the spending ceiling and left the problem in the hands of the President.

While favorable action by the Congress on the President's ceiling request would have relieved the fiscal problems of fiscal 1973, it would only have been a stop-gap measure, though an important one. There have been times in the past, as in 1964 and 1968, when Federal spending control became a major issue. But now it is, or at least should be, the major domestic issue before Congress. A citing of a few facts on recent expenditure growth shows why.

In brief, Federal spending totaled:

-- $16.5 billion in the first 111 years, 1790- 1900.
-- $150 billion in the next 40 years, 1901- 1940.
-- $535 billion in the next 10 years, 1941- 1950
-- $744 billion in the next 10 years, 1951- 1960
-- $553 billion in the next 5 years, 1961- 1965.
-- $853 billion in the next 5 years, 1966- 1970.
-- $695 billion (est.) in the next 3 years, 1971- 1973.

And, unless vigorous spending restraints are soon applied, the total in the coming three years, 1974- 1976, will be close to $900 billion.

The rising per capital cost of Federal spending -- in 1940 were $72.83
-- in 1950 were $286.32
-- in 1960 were $514.28
-- in 1970 were $967.53
-- in 1972 were $1,110.32

In 1973 spending per capital will rise to about $1,187 as a minimum, with $1,210 being more likely. Without vigorous expenditure restraints, the per capital figure will reach about $1,375 by 1975.

The substantial, and virtually uninterrupted, deterioration in the value of the dollar since 1940 obviously accounts in part for the increase in Federal spending as well as personal incomes and consumer expenditures. If the per capital Federal expenditure figures above are adjusted to a constant dollar according to the consumer price index, the inflation factor is removed. The per capital expenditure growth then appears as follows:

1940-- $174.23
1950-- $399.33
1960-- $584.40
1970-- $856.22
1972-- $900.50
1973-- $945.00 (est.)

As it stands today, the American people are faced with more deficits, higher taxes, or spending restraint. The end of large scale Federal deficit financing is not in sight before 1977 at the earliest unless spending growth is much better restrained or new taxes are imposed by the Congress.

The general public can make a choice. It can do nothing and accept the inflationary consequences of continued large deficits or the burden of additional taxes, whichever the President and the Congress may choose. Or the public can demand tighter control of expenditure growth.

The record shows that Federal spending can be controlled when there is a will in Congress and the Executive Branch to do so. Furthermore, citizens can make sure that the will is there by seriously requesting their elected representatives to support and practice expenditure restraint.

This is the major domestic issue and don't let anyone divert your attention with political double talk.

I've noticed washing instructions on leather clothes in some stores. How come leather is washable now?

A new tanning process allows leather to retain its softness and prvents shrinking after washing. However, all leather clothes are not washable. Before buying and washing leather, read the label for washability and washing instructions.

Why don't manufacturers standardize directions for the use of fabric softeners?

Formulas for these products are so varied that directions for their use must be tailored to fit the product. Basically there are two types of fabric softeners: one type is added in the rinse cycle; a newer type can be used in either the wash or rinse cycle. It is very important not to add other agents such as bluing, water conditioner, etc. when using products formulated to use with the rinse cycle. That's why it's impossible for manufacturers to standardize directions for fabric softeners as well as many consumer products on the market today.

Is bluing supposed to clean or bleach clothes?

Bluing does not clean or bleach. It counteracts yellowing. Many of today's detergents and laundry aids contain bluing agents or brightners. If the label stresses brightening action, you can assume it contains "optical brighteners." When using such products, you don't need bluing. Bluing is available in granules, liquids, cubes and pellets. It's important to read the directions before adding to find out if it should be dissolved and diluted before use.

CULTIVATE THE MANAGER

I represent a good product and sales in the supermarket near to my home were excellent. To try and find out how much more would be sold if it were featured in a large floor display, I persuaded my friend, the store manager, to build a large display and keep count at the end of each day of how many had been bought from the display. We already had a fairly accurate count (37) of daily sales from the shelf.

We were elated to discover that during the first 6 days after the display was up, sales averaged 49 a day. However, we did not know that there were no items on the shelf. The boy who had erected the pyramid had moved all units off the shelf to complete his display.

Thus the 49 represented total sales, not additional sales. Shoppers who were accustomed to finding it on the shelf may or may not have located it on the display. No doubt some of them had assumed the store was out of stock.

When we finally filled both the shelf and the display and kept count over a 2-week stretch, we sold an average of 26 units a day from the display and 39 from the shelf, for an overall increase of 76%.

It is interesting to note that shelf sales showed a slight increase (from 37, to 39), probably due to the advertising value of the display.

CUT HANGMAN'S NOOSE

A feature story in The New York Times reports that the utility commissioners of eight eastern states have appealed to U. S. Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel to replenish the nation's dwindling reserves of natural gas by fostering a more rapid development of new gas supplies. An indication of the growing gas shortage is the action of the New York State Public Service Commission in announcing contemplated new customer restrictions upon finding that the state's utilities were "rapidly reaching a critical situation."

The irony of the threatened gas shortage can be described as nothing less than momumental. Leaders of the oil and gas industry have been warning for more than a decade of percisely the situation that has developed. There is plenty of natural gas in the ground to supply the nation for years to come, but it remains locked in the ground because of a regulatory decision years ago that imposed utility type rate making on the risky business of gas exploration and production. In order to "benefit" consumers, gas prices were held below the incentive level, thus killing the development of new reserves. The utility commissioners of the eight eastern states urge greater economic incentives for gas producers. Until now, the warnings of petroleum and gas industry spokesmen that adequate incentives and adequate petroleum and gas supplies are two sides of the same coin have fallen on deaf ears.

Natural gas has become a major factor in the overall energy picture. Shortsighted regulatory measures that kill incentive and curtail exploration and development of oil and gas reserves are nothing more than a hangman's noose to a nation whose life depends on the energy from these natural resources. The noose should be loosened at once.

"How close did it come to you?" asked the farmer driving up to the shattered tree where his hired man had unwisely taken shelter from an electric storm.

"Well," gasped the hired man, "I don't know but my pipe wasn't lit before."

A Volkswagen pulled to the side of the road. The woman driving it lifted the hood and stood back, looking puzzled. Another woman, also driving a Volkswagen, stopped to help. When she asked what was wrong, the first woman exclaimed, "The engine has disappeared!"

"Oh, that's no problem," the Good Samaritan replied brightly. "I have an extra one in my trunk!"

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK-- Picking up steam and considerable heat, the militant but peaceful black power force inside labor, the Caolition of Black Trade Unionists (CBTU--- which will soon be as much a household and political inner- circle phrase as the NAACP) launched its first attack on a popular major labor chief.

It is the beginning. Black thunder will be followed by swift streaking lightning. The coalition has hit hard at the 44- year- old, popular prodigy of elderly labor chiefs. He's lanky, perpetually dieting Al Shanker, president of the world's largest local, New York's 70,000- member United Federation of Teachers (UFT), first vice president of the 250,000- member American Federation of Teachers (AFT), and leader of a coalition of some 186,000 New York state teachers.

Youngish, hard- driving, intellectually pragmatic with a touch of genius at union organizing-- which he got from his mother, once a member of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, and from his father, a union newspaper deliveryman-- Shanker is seen by insiders as well on his way to the inner circles of labor's high command. Already, though not a national union chief, he is being discussed as a potential recruit for the AFL—CIO Executive Council.

But the CBTU, made up of influential black trade unionists, respected in all labor milieus, hit Shanker as a racist.

Rarely has such bitterness been publicly aired. The CBTU, and its five- man steering committee, how heading for a second national convention May 25- 27, laid it right on the line. There is a resolution being circulated which begins with:

"Whereas, Albert Shanker, as a member of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Teachers, has worked against the best interests of black teachers, black children and the black community in general, and has used racism in the city of New York to divide black and white teachers..."

From then on the other "whereases" get tough. Here it should be reported that some 16,000 members of Shanker's Local 2 are black and Puerto Rican. This is some 22 per cent of the local union's membership. They span the color spectrum--- and job classifications. All the way from hard- core paraprofessionals to highly paid teachers.

As for the second: "Whereas, Albert Shanker induced the majority membership of the UFT, which is white, and which under his leadership has engaged in actions which are inimical to the welfare of black children and their parents.

"Whereas, Shanker has initiated or supported actions to remove from AFT leadership all black men and women who have ever had the courage to speak against his acts of overt and obvious racism, as in the case of Richard Parrish of his own local, William Simons of Washington (D.C.), and Rosa McGee of Tennessee and James Warnick of Delaware--- all former black Vice Presidents of the American Federation of Teachers whom Shanker was instrumental in removing from office because they failed or refused to do his bidding..."

The resolution also charges that Carol Graves, president of the Newark Teachers Union (who has been jailed several times for defying anti- strike court injunctions), was insulted by Shanker.

These are serious charges, powder- keg protests and a public black challenge inside labor. Shanker and his many colleagues point out that the black teachers named in the resolution were defeated in full democratic elections. They were members of a caucus which is as natural in a union as a cactus in an Airzona desert. Parrish formerly was assistant treasurer of Local 2. His caucus-- black and white-- was beaten 10 to 1 in an election.

There is more to the resolution which was passed late last month at the black coalition's Chicago assembly--- one of many such gatherings leading up to the national convention.

At the end of the document, the resolution proclaims "that this Regional Assembly of Black Trade Unionists call upon the Chicago Teachers Union to reconsider the contemplated display of Albert Shanker as an honored guest speaker at the May 1973 Education Conference in the interest of maintaining the harmonious relationships welded between all elements of the trade union movement in Chicago during the recent 12- day strike. (Signed) The Coalition of Black Trade Unionists."

Shanker, quite grave, tells me he still is scheduled to speak. Bill Lucy, the respected black American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees national secretary treasurer, tells me there will be picketing and demonstrations.

There are many issues here which may well shake the labor movement far more than the headlined stories on the other fronts. Black labor is on the march. Led by high officials of several unions including the United Auto Workers, they are crossing into the internal politics of other autonomous unions.

There are external issues. Shanker opposed his union's taking an antiwar (or pro- war) position on Vietnam or a position in the McGovern- Nixon race.

It would be underestimating and misunderstanding the caliber of the men involved to see this in sharp black and white terms. There are other philosophical differences. Many. What is pivotal is that the black labor coalition is marching openly.

Nixon Firm on Rent Decontrol

WASHINGTON— The White House was taken aback by the rise in rents after controls were lifted on January 11. Nevertheless, President Nixon is sticking to his guns and opposing the move by Congress to reimpose mandatory rent controls in metropolitan areas.

White House sources tell us that the President is convinced there's no economic justification for the sharp rise in rents. He believes unscrupulous landlords have taken advantage of decontrol to boost rents and fatten their bank accounts. But, in the long run, he is confident rents will settle down.

The President went ahead with rent decontrol after a study, intended for the eyes only of his economic advisers, concluded: "The economic basis exists for rent decontrol at the present time. Any jump in price would be small and local and not the start of a new skyrocketing tendency. The rental market is generally soft and getting softer."

Contrary to this prediction, rents zoomed in many areas. Yet the President's advisers still believe the economic factors justify decontrol. They are apprehensive, however, over the "political repercussions."

The rent study acknowledged, for example, that "lopping off" rents from wage- price controls would be politically risky "give the special contempt of the public for landlords."

Cautioned the study: "Public trust in wage and price controls rests on the belief that they are equitable and this belief rests on the view that all forms of income-- wages, executive salaries, business profits, rents and corporate dividends-- should go up only moderately."

The memo added that decontrol "would probably weaken public confidence in the equity of the program and would, therefore, lead to less cooperation and compliance..., Americans not being the most patient people in the world."

Footnote: The Senate overrode White House objections and passed a rent control bill this week by a convincing 50- to- 38 margin. The House is expected to concur.

Broken Promises

Spanish- Americans, after a whirlwind political courtship during the 1972 campagn, are complaining bitterly that President Nixon hasn't kept his promises to them.

As the election approached, he poured an estimated $47 million into projects for Spanish- speaking Americans. The money, part of which had been withheld previously by the Administration, was funneled through the Health, Education and Welfare Department, the Housing and Urban Development Department and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

At least $20 million went into the areas of California and Texas with large Spanish-American populations. The highest ranking Spanish-Americans in the Administration, antipoverty director Philip Sanchez and mass transportation administrator Carlos Villareal, also toured the country at the taxpayers' expense, telling what the President was doing for the Spanish speaking population.

As the money began falling like autumn leaves, one Latino employment service, called Ser, meaning "to be" in Spanish, was promised a 50 per cent fund increase by President Nixon himself at a special White House ceremony. His interest in Spanish- American affairs, he told them, was not "a one- shot deal."

The President's campaigners courted the Latinos and Chicanos with bilingual brochures, films and galas. One such wingding in San Antonio featured the President's brother, Donald Nixon, and Latin movie star Ricardo Montalban. Tickets to the affair were sold through the United Businessmen of San Antonio, a federally- funded organization offering technical assistance to minority merchants.

The campaign was effective. The Spanish- American vote went Republican in many areas which had long been Democratic strongholds.

But now, both Sanchez and Villareal, who campaigned so hard to drum up Spanish-American support for the President, have lost their high posts. Ser received a telegram in January rescinding the funding increases personally promised by the President. Our informants say even the United Businessmen soon will be phased out.

Military Mustache

An episode at President Nixon's inaugural has become the hottest "cause celebre" in military meleee over hairstyles.

Without further ceremony, Graves personally trimmed the mustache. So incensed was the enlisted man that he filed a complaint with the inspector general's office at Fort Meade which, however, decided the complaint was "nonactionable."

Nevertheless, Graves admits his scissors assault probably was in technical violation of regulations. This leaves standing the question of whether he practiced barbering without a license. "I thought I did it very neatly," said Graves. The enlisted man begged us not to reveal his name, saying he feared reprisal worse than the shortening of his mustache.

Heavy equipment moves in to raise heighth of levee

CHARLESTON — Heavy earth- moving equipment from four construction companies moved into the Birds Point- New Madrid Floodway area in Missouri, just below Cairo, Ill., Friday afternoon and began work this morning to raise the heights of the upper fuse plug levee of the floodway.

The mobilization activities were ordered by Col. John D. Parish Jr., Memphis district engineer of the Army Corps of Engineers.

Crumpecker Construction Co. of Morehouse, Cinusha Construction Co. of St. Louis, Potashnick Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau and Stagner Construction Co. of Charleston responded to the request for equipment, and five other companies have equipment standing by.

According to Parish, restoration work on the levee will be done this summer and the addition to the levee would probably be left on a permanent basis.

All state counties had traffic deaths in 1972

JEFFERSON CITY — One or more traffic deaths were recorded in each of Missouri's 114 counties last year, according to the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

Jackson County experienced the most traffic fatalities in 1972 with 133 persons killed. Ninety-six of the deaths occurred in Kansas City. The second highest toll was reported in St. Louis County with 126. This does not include the city of St. Louis in which 95 persons were killed in vehicular accidents last year.

The Missouri State Highway patrol, in a study of last year's county traffic toll, found that 58 counties in the state had an increase in traffic deaths from 1971. Included in this group were St. Louis with an increase of 16, Pettis County had 15 more, Ste. Geneiveve 11 more and Boone, Greene, Mississippi and Pemiscot each recorded 10 more traffic fatalities in 1972 than in the previous year.

Forty-six Missouri counties had a decrease in the number of persons killed in traffic mishaps. Notable among these were Henry County with a decrease of 15, Lafayette County with 12 fewer fatalities and Clay and Franklin counties each had 11 fewer traffic deaths last year than in 1971.

Ten of the 114 counties in the state recorded the same traffic toll in 1971 and 1972.

Missouri recorded 1,474 traffic fatalities last year, 59 more than in 1971. Late deaths resulting from injuries sustained in traffic accidents in 1972 will be added to the toll.

Traffic deaths by county in 1971 and 1972; Cape Girardeau County, 16 in 1971, eight in 1972; Dunklin County, 16 in 1971, 21 in 1972; Mississippi County, seven in 1971, 17 in 1972; New Madrid County, 23 in 1971, 25 in 1972; Pemiscot County, 14 in 1971, 24 in 1972; Scott County, 14 in 1971, 23 in 1972; and Stoddard, 13 in 1971, nine in 1972.

TB unit to visit East Prairie Monday

EAST PRAIRIE — The tuberculosis mobile chest x-ray unit will be in East Prairie Monday from 12:30 p.m. until 6:30 p.m., and will be located at Checkerboard Square.

According to Mrs. Lindell Morris, president of the East Prairie Parent - Teachers Association, officers and members will staff the unit for the second consecutive year.

Persons 45 or older, smokers 30 or older and those who have a doctor's referral slip and are 21 or older should plan to visit the mobile unit for a free chest x-ray.

The unit will also be on the cotton gin lot in Dorena from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. Monday.

9 patients treated

Nine accident patients were treated Friday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Scouts to lease Wappapello land for canoe base

Approval was given by the executive board of the Southeast Missouri Boy Scout Council for the leasing of 60 acres of property with lakeside frontage on Lake Wappapello.

The property, located about four miles from U. S. 67 on County Route BB, will be leased for an extended period from the Corps of Engineers and used as a wilderness area and canoe base.

This action was taken at the regularly scheduled council meeting Thursday night in Sikeston at Two Tony's Restaurant. The meeting was presided over by Dr. Mark Scully, council president and president of Southeast Missouri State University and was attended by 38 men representing 14 counties.

The vote of approval to lease the additional land came after a special committee, headed by A. J. Drinkwater of Charleston made a report on their meeting with the Corps of Engineers in Memphis. In addition, T. A. Brown Jr., of Kennett discussed the location of the property and gave the committee's recommendation for leasing.

In other business the board heard a treasurer's report from Jim Lansmon of Cape Girardeau, assistant treasurer, on the financial status of the council.

The board received a report from Jim Spain of Bloomfield, council commissioner, on progress toward strengthening service to units by recruiting additional unit commissioners. He also announced dates for training unit commissioners.

Board members were informed by Paul Johnson of Poplar Bluff, member of the Council Camping Committee, that there would be a pre-camp inspection May 19 to insure that Camp Lewallen meets national standards regarding health and safety facilities. The inspection will be made by the council camping committee and the council health and safety committee. Johnson also announced a special program in canoeing is being planned for Camp Lewallen and Lake Wappapello, and that a Campmaster Corps has been established under the direction of Lt. Commander Jamed Dowdy, USN, of Cape Girardeau.

Purpose of the Campmaster corps is to assist troops and boys in having a more purposeful, enjoyably program in short-term camping. The camping committee feels that in establishing the Campmaster Corps, we will have more troops doing better camping, experiencing more advancement, and will have better troop organization. In short the year-round camping program takes on a new significance and meaning for all concerned.

Mel Vogel of Cape Girardeau, council organization and extension chairman, announced that the goal of the council is to have five new units in each of the Council's five districts by the end of June. He also said the National goal for all local councisl is to serve onythird of all boys off scouting age by 1976.

The board heard the recommendations of the council advancement committee from Walter Hedrick of Sikeston regarding the requirements for the service project required to attain the rank of Eagle. He also announced the retirement of Circuit Judge Marshall Craig of Sikeston, who served as council Eagle Board of Review chairman for five years.

Reports on the five districts were given by Bob Keathley of Bernie, Charles Brown of Kennett, Tom Gilmore of Sikeston, Paul Johnson of Poplar Bluff, and Weldon Huber of Perryville.

Two men were invested in new positions -- Bill Johnson of Malden as an executive board member and Carl Benbrook of Cape Girardeau as council public relations chairman.

The board was given a report by Jerry Beckner of Cape Girardeau, Council Scout Executive. Beckner introduced two field representatives from the national staff of Boy Scouts of America -- Chub Byrns of Kansas City, Kans., and Elmer Lucky of Princeton, N. Y. He also commended Dr. Scully for the series of dinner meetings held at his home for council and district operating committee chairmen.

Board members observed a moment of silence for Harry Blanton, who died recently after serving scouting for more than 40 years. Blanton was the holder of the Silver Beaver, the Council's highest honor.

Optimist contests Tuesday

The Optimist Club's boys and girls oratorical contest will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the banquet room at Ramada Inn.

To give the event more impact, Optimist International opened the event to girls for the first time this year since its inception as an all-boys contest from 10-15 years since 1928.

Sikeston Breakfast Club, now in its sixth year in the city, will lead the eight- club Southeast Missouri Zone 20 with 21 entries, 11 boys and 10 girls. Boys and girls are in separate contests, and thre trophies will be awarded each group.

Title of the five- minute oration will be "Listen World."

First place winner in the girls contest will compete with eight winners in the zone contest April 3 at 6:45 p.m. at Wayside Inn, near Interstate 55 between Cape Girardeau and Jackson.

Winner of the local boys group will compete against zone club winners at Top of the Hill (Sunny Hill) in Cape Girardeau on April 5 at 6:30 p.m.

A change in the International contest over past years will be the awarding of 40 or more $500 university scholarships compared to the former $2,000 for first place and several $1,000 scholarships nationwide.

The two zone winners will compete for the Missouri district award of $500 in Jefferson City April 28-29 while, for the first time in 45 years, there will be no contest at the international meet to be held this year in San Antonio, Tex., June 24-28.

The contest has been rescheduled for the Ramada, due to the increase of contestants and attendance.

Girls entered are Cheryl Johnson and Deborrah Griffin, both of Matthews High School; Janet Sauls of Sikeston High School; and Carol McClore, Charlotte Smith, Debra Caskey, Susan Scott, Kristy Southern, Tamra Boshears and Jeanene Johnson of Sikeston Junior High.

In the boys contest, David Moore and George McVay of Matthews, Loomis Mayfield, III, Billy Ray Mayfield, Peter Myers Jr. and Carl Leonard of Sikeston High School; Bill Klein, Tim Brown, Keven Hampton, Steve Streetman and Ronnie Seiler of Sikeston Junior High.

The Rev. James Holt and Leo L. Schade are co-chairmen of the contest.

Dr. Pinkstaff speaks to LPN's

Dr. Thomas Pinkstaff, pediatrician for Ferguson Medical Group, was guest speaker for the Sikeston Chapter of Missouri State Association of Licensed Practical Nurses. The group of 32 met in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital classroom. Dr. Pinkstaff's topic was "The Retarded Child." A question and answer period followed.

All licensed practical nurses are invited to the chapter meetings on the first Monday of each month at 7 p.m. in the hospital classroom.

4-H forum in progress at capitol

COLUMBIA — Mrs. Edward Russell of Kelso is Scott County's representative to the National 4-H Leader Forum which began today. She and the other 33 4-H leaders from throughout the state are accompanied by Arlon L. Horn, area youth agent of Butler County,

The delegates assembled in Columbia and left today for the National 4-H Center in Washington, D.C. The group will return April 1.

Each delegate is a recipient of a $90 scholarship sponsored by the Missouri 4-H Foundation to attend the forum. This is the 11th year Missouri has participated in the leader forum.

Highlighting the bus trip to Washington will be sightseeing stops at Gettysburg and Mr. Vernon. While in Washington, they will tour the city, covering such spots as the Congressional offices, U.S. Capitol, Supreme Court and Library of Congress, Smithsonian Institute, Arlington Cemetery and Washington Monument.

Thi year's forum will cover topics on understanding youth and helping them meet their needs. They will discuss effective use of junior leaders, parent involvement and teaching tools and techniques.

This year they also will cover working with low-income 4-H audiences. Resource speakers from the Washington area will address the leaders on the topics before the delegates break into smaller group workshops.

The forum is sponsored annually by the National 4-H Foundation, Inc., a private non-profit educational institution which was incorporated in 1948 by the Cooperation Extension Service of state land grant universities and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The foundation mission is to augment the youth work of extension.

Bell City sponsors benefit

BELL CITY — The Community Development Corporation is sponsoring a musical benefit show Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Bell City High School gymnasium. Proceeds will be used to further efforts of bringing industry to the Bell City area.

Groups and individuals featured in the evening's entertainment will include The Casuals, a pop- combo group; T. G. & Y., guitarists and vocalists; the Cornshuckers, a country-western group; Keith and Erika Voss, acrobat and accordianist; Hal Mar McDonald, pop pianist; and the High School Stage Band, playing pop music.

Gosepl music will be sung by The Inspirations, The Tate Singers, The Bootheel Community Choir and Watson & Barks.

Attendance prizes will be given during the program.

GIULINI TO VIENNA

VIENNA (AP) — Carlo Maria Giulini has been named chief conductor of the Vienna Symphony Orchestra.

He replaces Wolfgang Sawallisch, who left to be general music director of the State Opera in Munich.

The Italian musician, who was born in 1914 in Barletta, was on the staff of La Scala in Milan from 1953 to 1956. He has led the foremost orchestras of Europe and America as a guest conductor and since 1959 has been the principal guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony.

Ann Landers

Guy can visit girl's pad...not live there

Dear Ann Landers: Here's an admission of stupidity, defeat or whatever you want to call it. Please print it. I'll feel better if I get it off my chest.

Ron and I both lived off-campus. My pad was bigger than his so I let him move in with me. We decided it would be cheaper and more practical since he was sleeping over a lot anyway and we usually ate together. Neither of us felt we were ready for marriage. I always believed girls who insisted on a wedding ring were trying to tie a guy up for security. I didn't want Ron to stay with me for any reason except because he wanted to.

Well, here's where it's at after sixteen months of doing his laundry, typing his papers, cooking, cleaning and watching him smoke dope, contemplate his navel and study eight religions -- Eastern and Western. He does no work around here (too spaced out) and we argue constantly. Last night he hassled me about pestering him when he wanted to read, so I lost my cool and told him to get out. He said some pretty rotten things to me before he left.

Now I realize I made a big mistake. We had a truly beautiful relationship until he moved in. It spoiled everything. So please tell those other so-called liberated females that a chick's pad is a nice place for her guy to visit, but she shouldn't let him live there. P.S. Ron's main argument in favor of moving in with me was that living together before marriage prevents divorce. Any comment? --- Ree-Gretz

Dear Ree: There is no evidence that living together before marriage reduces the possibility of divorce. As a matter of fact I'm receiving letters like yours in increasing numbers, as time goes on. The girls usually feel they gave too much and received too little in return. Understandably, they are bitter and resentful. As for my personal opinion, do I favor such experiments? No. I do not.

Dear Ann Landers: We moved to his neighborhood because we heard it was friendly. Friendship always meant a lot to us. We lived here three months and not one living soul has come over to welcome us. My brother thought this was pretty crummy and decided he wanted nothing to do with our neighbors.

Two weeks ago my mother died. My brother decided to let bygones be bygones. He went to the people next door and asked if they would like to take up a collection from the other neighbors for flowers. They said they had never done such a thing before and shut the door. We never heard from them after that.

We love this house and don't want to move. How does one cope with neighbors who are so cold and unfriendly? --- Hurt Feelings.

Dear Hurt: Customs vary, according to area, and perhaps the customs you took for granted in your previous neighborhood are unheard of here. Your neighbors have made it abundantly clear that they don't wish to be friendly -- so greet them casually when you meet and don't look to them for friendship.

Dear Ann Landers: Before I married I had a fine position. The company president ran into my husband yesterday and told him he'd love for me to come back at a nice increase in salary.

Our baby is less than a year old. My husband says his widowed mother can move in and take over. We could surely use the money, but his mother and I never got along and I don't want to go back to work. Help me decide. --- X.O.

Dear X.O.: No amount of money is worth a wrecked marriage. Say NO.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Science careers displayed

POPLAR BLUFF
Students interested in opportunities for careers in science are being invited to an open house and demonstration in the physics and chemistry laboratories March 31 at Three Rivers community college.

The laboratories will be open from 2 to 4 p.m. and instructors will be on hand to demonstrate equipment and answer questions.

Invitations have been sent by James E. Rawlings, chairman of the Science and Mathematics Division, to all high schools in the Three Rivers Junior College District (Butler, Carter, Ripley and Wayne counties) and to various high schools in Bollinger, Dunklin, New Madrid, Oregon, Pemiscot, Reynolds and Shannon counties.

Sydney Morris, instructor in physics, and Robert D. Hayes, instructor in chemistry, will be in the laboratories to greet visitors. Both laboratories are on the second floor of the Academic Building, 507 Vine St.

Several groups of students invited to a similar demonstration last fall expressed disappointment because they were unable to visit the college at that time. The open house and demonstrations this spring are in response to requests for another opportunity to attend a scientific display.

If my son were being recruited I would....

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Much has been written about college recruiting. But here's a different perspective -- that of a collegiate basketball coach who lists four key guidlines he would want to see adhered to if his two teenage sons were being recruited.

John Edwards is head basketball coach at Southwest Baptist College in Bolivar, Mo. A member of the Fellowship of Christain Athletes, Edwards addressed these comments to his colleagues at an FCA breakfast for NAIA basketball coaches. The article appears in the March issue of the Christian Athlete magazine.

Recruiting is the name of the game -- whether it's a private liberal arts college, a major university, or a junior college.

Whether we like it or not, college coaches are caught up in a rather unique situation. Only a small percentage of all the time and money spent in recruiting actually benefits his program and his school. The success ratio in recruiting might be higher in a large university but, anyway you look at it, the tremendous expenditure of money and manhours is highly inefficient.

Colleges and universities are subjected to much criticism in regard to recruiting. I contend, however, that various individuals -- coaches, parents and athletes themselves -- share much of the blame for the present system of recruiting. I feel these individuals have a responsibility to themselves as well as to institutions doing the recruiting, and should look very carefully at four factors. My viewpoint in examining these guidelines is not necessarily that of a coach -- but as the father of two teenage sons.

First, if my sons were being recruited I would not want them to be bought. There is no point in debating that illegal enticing goes on in college athletics. The type of buying I'm talking about exists in many forms other than the actual exchange of money.

This kind of competition for an athlete may rob both the school and athlete of a very valuable aspect of character. Loyalty. It's also the basis of other problems arising from a false sense of values which often develops. I want my sons to have pride in the institution they attend, to know that athletics is only part of an educational experience, and to realize that any amount of compensation is small compared to the value of education itself.

Secondly, I would like my sons to attend a school where they would be recognized as individuals. There's no doubt that individual identity is lost in many institutions. Many college coaches use the bodies of young men without recognizing them as persons.

I had an incident occur while I was at Samford University in Birmingham, Ala., which involved a young man who had transferred from a large university in the South. "Coach," he told me, "during the five months I was there the coach never said one word to me other than to correct me in practice."

If we really believe there's a place for individual worth in college athletics, we can't allow this type of thing to continue. I certainly don't want it to happen to my sons.

A third important consideration is that I'd like for my sons to attend a school where they can develope a sense of responsibility and become a mature person. Someone says, "All schools offer this opportunity."

Do they? The players at many institutions are led to believe they are different and consequently they live under a different set of rules than other students. I think we coaches have a responsiblity to review the aspects of our school's curriculum and help our young men to develop some sense of responsiblity other than just skills in their sports.

To rob athletes of this right is, in a sense, cheating them because it doesn't allow them to develop a trait which is absolutely essential for modern living: the right to be a responsible person.

Finally, I would definitely want to see a Fellowship of Christian Athletes group at the institution my sons would select. FCA provides a way to really put what you believe into practice. We've seen it work at our school where some of our players are active in a big brother type program.

Take a big guy like Mike Carr, our 7-1 sophomore center. At times he brings an underprivileged youngster to a game. Or Mike takes him to the dining hall to eat supper with him or takes him to a movie. Although he's improved, Mike averaged just 3 points and 3 rebounds per game last season. But he went beyond himself and probably learned an important lesson in life.

FCA was the vehicle and supplied the opportunity. So I'd like my sons to go to a school where FCA is a part of the athletic program, where a person can go beyond himself and learn to care for and get involved with others.

These four factors don't guarantee my sons will turn out any better. But they are opportunities and considerations that many schools don't offer or attempt to provide.

If your son(s) were being recruited what would you want for them?

No-hit exhibition

"I'd rather have this happen on April 23 when it counts," said Kansas City rookie Steve Busby.

"I was thinking about the law of averages. Sometimes you follow a guy who's throwing a nohitter and everything breaks loose," added another rookie, Doug Bird.

Their comments followed their combined no-hitter Friday, a 4-1 exhibition baseball victory over the Detroit Tigers.

It was the first time the Tigers had been held hitless since Joe Horlen of the Chicago White Sox did it in September of 1967.

Bird yielded the lone Detroit run in the seventh as Norm Cash walked and pinch runner Joe Staton came around on a stolen base, passed ball and infield grounder.

The three Cruz brothers—Jose, Hector and Cirilo—started in the outfield and led St. Louis over the New York Mets 9-2 The trio got five of the Cardinals' 12 hits, Cirilo slamming a triple in the five-run seventh that locked up the victory for Bob Gibson.

In other games, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2, the Atlanta Braves topped the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4, the Houston Astros slipped past the Minnesota Twins 4-3, the Cleveland Indians tripped the Chicago Cubs 2-1, the Boston Red Sox downed the Chicago White Sox 7-6 in 10 innings, the Oakland A's beat the Milwaukee Brewers 4-3, the San Francisco Giants belted the California Anges 6-1, the Montreal Expos tamed the Baltimore Orioles 2-1, the Cubs downed the Brewers 4-1 in a 'B' squad contest and the New York Yankees nipped the Texas Rangers 3-2 in 16 innings.

White Sox outfielder Carlos May suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg as Chicago defeated Boston 7-6 in 10 innings. He is expected to be sidelined 2-3 weeks.

Joe Pepitone drove in three runs with a pair of homers in the Cubs' 'B' victory over the Brewers. Ferguson Jenkins worked seven innings for the Cubs, yielding five singles and one run.

Willie McCovey blasted a two-run homer off Nolan Ryan in the fourth inning and Juan Marichal pitched six innings of two-hit ball as the Giants defeated the Angels.

Charlie Spikes' sixth home run of the exhibition season, a two-run shot in the seventh inning, gave the Indians their victory over the Cubs in a rainshortened game.

Fred Stanley's single and Johnny Callison's double in the bottom of the 16th inning gave the New York Yankees a 3-2 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Paul Casanova knocked in the Braves' winning run with a single in the seventh inning against the Phillies. The Reds scored three runs in the fourth and got five-hit pitching from Jim McGlothlin and Ed Sprague to defeat the Dodgers.

A sacrifice fly by Lee May and Jim Wynn's single produced two runs in the ninth inning to boost the Astros past the Twins.

Mizzou fights

COLUMBIA, Mo. — It's ironic that both of Missouri's greatest basketball scorers of all-time were evicted from the final game of their senior season for an on- the- court fracas.

Back in 1961, Mizzou's Charlie Henke and Wayne Hightower of Kansas were the combatants in an isolated incident under the south goal in old Brewer field house. Their exchange of punches touched off a pretty good brawl involving other players from both benches and some spectators who spilled out on the court.

The game was nationally telecast, with Jack Buck doing the play- by- play -- and the blow- by- blow.

Saturday afternoon March 10th, Don Jackson of Nebraska and Tiger John Brown swapped punches early in the second half. This fight lasted for just about five seconds, and was squelched without any further involvement.

Henke, a 6-7 center, held the Missouri career record of 1338 points until Brown overtook him in the first half of the Oklahoma State game on March 3.

The Henke- Hightower donnybrook of a dozen years ago had one humorous sidelight.

When the melee broke out, big Harry Smith -- then a Tiger assistant football coach -- rushed to where the Mizzour pep band was grouped and directed them to play some music -- in hopes of pacifying the angry, swirling crowd.

The band responded promptly.

They played the Tiger Fight Song!

Canoe race interest high

BONNE TERRE, Mo. — With the fourth annual National Endurance Canoe Race a little over two months away, entries and requests for entry forms have been coming in at a much higher rate than last year. Based on the number of requests for entry forms, it is estimated that there will be over 100 entries this year.

There are to be three distinct classes this year: a money class, made up of 15 winners for cash and trophies and a novice class made up of non- professional racers desiging to race for trophies. The other class will fall in the amateur classification. Trophies will be awarded in all three classes, 48 trophies in all will be given away.

This year, the Endurance Canoe Race will start at St. Francois State Park, just 2½ miles northeast of Bonne Terre, and continue downstream 21½ miles to Washington State Park on Highway 21, Washington County, Mo. Spectators will be able to view the race from St. Francois State Park, Old North Highway 67, Bridge at Big River, Highway E Bridge areas, Blackwell area, and the Vineland area. Spectator points will be marked.

The Ozark C.B. (Citizens Band) Club and REACT (Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Team) will maintain 7 stations along the 21½ mile course, maintaining radio contact and precise location of all canoeists along the river. The REACT team will have emergency first aid at all stations, as well as emergency floating units.

All persons desiring to enter the race are urged to mail entry forms immediately. All non-professional canoeists should plan to depart from the Starting Point between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m., Sunday May 20, 1973.

Entry forms may be obtained by writing:

National Endurance Canoe Race, P. O. Box 294, Bonne Terre, Missouri 63628.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — This Midwest city was shrouded today in a war of nerves and basketball hysteria as Providence faced Memphis State and Indiana fought top-ranked UCLA in the semfinals prelude to Monday night's national collegiate championship showdown.

The battle of nerves centered around the coaches and players of the three teams which are underdogs and possessing dreams of dethroning UCLA, winner of six consecutive national titles and a heavy favorite to annex number seven.

With Big Ten champion Indiana, of course, UCLA was the immediate problem since the hotshot Hoosiers had a 4:10 p. m., EST, date with the proud Bruins, unbeaten in 73 straight games over three seasons.

Bob Knight, the Hoosier coach, said he planned to "do the same things we have done in 26 games this season. I'm not smart enough to devise something tricky to play anybody."

Knight said he had had suggestions from people "from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Bangor, Maine on how to play UCLA" but that he "hasn't used any of them. I've been accused of a lot of things but not running the operation myself isn't one of them."

Knight denied sixth-ranked Indiana would employ the freeze against the Bruins but Coach John Wooden of UCLA predicted the Hoosiers would stall.

Wooden suid he "wouldn't change our game to play anybody. We're not awed by being in the semfinals. Experience is a big thing. I have always said I'd rather have talent than experience."

Told that everybody was conceding the championship to UCLA, Wooden smiled and said:

"That's a nice position. I wish the right people would concede it. The ones who are conceding us the championship are the ones who aren't playing."

Several of the UCLA players, including star forward Keith Wilkes spent this morning taking final examinations under the supervision of a faculty member who accompanied the team.

Providence, fourth-ranked and an at-large selection, and Memphis State, Missouri Valley king, were to collide at 2:10 p.m., EST, but both were unconsciously letting their thoughts dwell into the future— Monday night's finals.

"You dream about a game like with UCLA," said Memphis State Coach Gene Bartow.

Softball for girls

Plans are underway to form a girls softball league through the Ministerial Alliance for a community betterment program that will give recreational opportunity for girl athletes.

All girls that are interested in participating must turn their names into their church no later than March 28. There will be two leagues, one for six through nine year olds and one for young adults.

25-cagers honored

The Daily Standard officially brings down the curtain on the 1972-73 Southeast Missouri high school basketball season today with the announcement of the seventh annual 15- member all- star and all- academic teams as selected by the papers 15- member panel of coaches.

Bootheel coaches nominated the players for the teams and the panel of coaches narrowed the field to the top 15 and named the number one team of the season along with the coach of the year.

Poplar Bluff's Bob Gray and Scott Thomas of Chaffee were unanimous choices for both teams and were two of six players selected by the panel of coaches for both teams. Joining the duo were Cape Girardeau Central's Dick Buxton, Joe Cagle of Caruthersville and Advance's Darrell Croy and Terry Wills.

Only one underclassman was named to the all- star squad, that being Jeff "Jethro" Jackson of Kelly. Five underclassmen were named to the all- academic squad, juniors Bill Seabaugh of Cape Girardeau Central, Roy Bowman of Sikeston, Carl McFarland of Clarkton and Armand Porter of Matthews joined with Sophomore Andy Smelser of Risco on the academic roster.

Buxton and Thomas were repeaters from last season on both teams. Croy repeated on the Academic roster.

Daily Standard 7th Annual Awards

THUMB NAIL SKETCHES OF ALL—STAR TEAM

SCOTT THOMAS --- Scott is the tallest all-star on the squad at 6-7. He is a repeater from last years team as well as the all-academic team. He averaged 23 points a game and 18 rebounds per game. Scott was an outstanding football player and has been an above average basketball player from his sophomore year. He also is a professional baseball prospect as the big senior possesses a live fast ball. He has signed a letter of intent to attend Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau on a basketball and baseball scholarship.

BOB GRAY --- This 6-4 senior had an outstanding year for the Mules with a scoring average of 16 per game and a rebounding average of 11. Bob was also selected to the all-academic squad. He was the team leader for coach Tom Hoover's Mules.

POPE HUNT --- He joined the Bulldogs for the second half of the season after coach McDaniel's forces had lost 10 straight and rebounded the Bulldogs to a 7-3 record. He was the team leader averaging 22 points a game with a 51 per cent shooting average from the field and hauled in 15 rebounds a game. At 6-4 he was one of the oustanding jumpers in the entire state. He was also named to the all-district team for his fine efforts on the hardwoods.

FRED ROWE --- This 6-3 all star was the district's leading scorer with a 28.7 average and was an outstanding defensive star as well pulling down an average of 22.3 rebounds a game. He had an outstanding shooting percentage of 48.6 per cent from the field and scored 49 points in a single game for a new Scott Central high school record, breaking his own record of 45 set earlier in the year.

JOE CAGLE --- This 5-11 guard finished a fine career at Caruthersville not only in basketball but was an outstanding quarterback on the football team as well. Joe led the Tigers in scoring with a 17.2 average and averaged 11 rebounds a game from his guard position. He started as a freshman in the regional tournament and scored 16 points and has been a starter for coach Hugh James' team ever since. He was offered a football scholarship at the University of Missouri. Joe was named to the all-district, all-academic, all- conference, and finally to the all-state team in class M.

DICK BUXTON --- This 6-5 giant is a repeater from last years Daily Standard All-Star, and all-academic team. He upped his scoring average this season from 13.8 to 22 points a game and from 8.7 rebounds to 14 per contest. He was named to the all-district, all-conference, last year as well as this season and climbed from honorable all-state in class L last year to the first team all-state this year.

DARRELL CROY --- Darrell completed his high school at Advance this season at the time as he was picked unanimously to the class S all-state team. He had a scoring average of 18.2 per game. He has been named to all the all-star teams in the areas as well as the state. Darrell also excels in the classroom being named to the all-academic team for the second consecutive year. He will attend the university of Missouri on an academic scholarship as well as basketball. He was a starting guard on last years state championship team and the runnerup team this season.

ALVIN PIERCE --- this 6-2 forward has been an outstanding shooter from his sophomore season. Was predicted to be a standout by area coaches from the beginning. He was selected for the second straight year. Alvin averaged 22.9 points a game and had a rebounding average of 17 per contest.

HERMAN BROWN --- Herman is a repeater from last years all-star squad and at 6-4 is one of the best jumpers in the area. He has an average of 16.9 points a game and 17 rebounds. He ends his high school career after leading the Lions into first round of class M state play in his junior year.

JEFF JACKSON --- Jeff is becoming one of the outstanding players in the district his junior year and helped lead the Kelly Hawks into the quarter- final round of state class M play for the first time in the 15 year of the high school. He averaged 16.8 points a game and had a game high of 37 points. He was the leading rebounder on the team with an average of 16 per game. He is also one of the area's top high school pitchers and led the Hawks to state tournament play last year as a sophomore.

JAMES HOLT --- He is one of the district's top outside shooters, averaging 22 points a game in his senior year. He is 6-1 and hauls in 11 rebounds a game. Scored 38 points for a single game high.

JOHN RHODES --- Ended his high school career on a high note by being named to the all-state class S team. He had an outstanding performance in state tournament play after illness had hampered most of the team. He took charge and led the Hornets to second place. John was a top defensive player which is overlooked many times due the offensive ability of other players. He averaged 15.4 points a game and had an average of seven rebounds a game. He plans to attend Missouri Baptist College in St. Louis upon graduation and become a minister. Named to all-district, all-conference teams.

NORMAN PAYNE --- He had an outstanding career at Viburnum, leading his team in scoring with an average of 18.2. Norman led the Jays to the semi-finals in South Iron regional past year.

DALE CREWS --- At 6-4 averaged 18 points a game after the first half of season. He joined the Pirates for second half and led Parma to the conference tournament championship and was the key factor in leading the team to the Bloomfield class S regional championship. He led the team in rebounds with 13 per game. Picked to all-district team.

TERRY WILLS --- Was the third Advance Hornet to receive the all-star honor. Terry was named to all the all-star teams except all-state where received honorable mention. He came down with theflu in the state playoffs and weakened his performance after being the Hornets leader through the entire year. He averaged 17.5 points per game and averaged 12 rebounds a game. He had his best scoring games in the regional tournament at South Iron, hitting over thirty on two occasions. He has been a steady performer from his sophomore year.

THUMBNAIL SKETCHES OF ALL-ACADEMIC STARS

JOE CAGLE -- He has been named to all the area's all-star team with the top honor having selected to all-state class M squad. Young farmers host meeting at research center

PORTAGEVILLE — The New Madrid County Young Farmers Association was host for an all- day Southeast District meeting March 17 at the University of Missouri Delta Research Center.

The meeting focused on informing young farmers of activities of the young farmers organization and establishing more chapters in the district and enlisting new members.

The Missouri Young Farmers Association was formed four years ago. There are 62 chapters in the state with five chapters in the southeast district which comprises about 14 counties.

Trent Walker of Helena, Ark., gave a talk on the advancements in farm chemicals and discussed new chemicals being introduced.

E. B. Nace, University of Missouri farm economist, spoke on the farm economic outlook and presneted comparison data on prices, markets and farming operations.

Larry Riley of Bernie was master of ceremonies and Tommy Essary of Matthews was moderator for a panel discussion. Panel members included MYF members Danny Summerlott an;Larry Britt of East Prairie, Bill Whitener of Fredericktown, Sam Faulkner of New Madrid and Jim Lawrence, advisor for Campbell MYF.

The discussion centered on procedures in forming MYF Chapters, rules and regulations and different types of programs for meetings.

Special guests included Robert Hayward, executive secretary of MYF and Mrs. Hayward of Jefferson City; J. D. Harris, of Poplar Bluff, district advisor; Mrs. Sharon Hunt of Benton, area home economist in child and family relations; personnel of the Delta Center; and businessmen who donated refreshments, lunch and door prizes for the meeting.

About 62 persons, including wives of young farmers, attended.

Outstanding corn yield winner

Dekalb District Manager Paul Ehlert right of Jackson, Mo., presented a plague to five area corn producers for their outstanding corn yields. R. H. Robinson, Dekalb dealer of Dexter, accepted the awards for the four who were unable to attend. The honored corn growers are: Wally Clippard, Dexter, for 178.42 bushels per acre of XL-81; Clarence Ott, Ladell Norman, and Tom Meritt all of Essex, for 145.9 bushels per acre of XL-81; and Mr. Robinson. Robinson received special recognition for his entry in the National Corn Growers Contest. He had the highest irrigated entry in the state with a yield of 201.2 bushels per acre with Dekalb XL-72A.

Five corn growers honored

Five acre corn producers were recently honored at a meeting of the Dekalb 200 Club of Columbia, Missouri. They are Wally Clippard, Dexter; for 178.42 bushels per acre; Clarence Ott, Ladell Norman, and Tom Meritt of Essex, 145.9 bushels per acre; and R. H. Robinson, Dexter with 201.2 bushels per acre.

All of the growers but Robinson used XL-81 variety, while Robinson used Dekalb XL-72A to gain the highest irrigated entry in the state. Robinson is also a member of a newly selected panel to discuss new corn growing practices. Robinson's yield was an increase of 27 bushels per acre over his 1972 output.

The purpose of the Dekalb 200 Club is to promote better corn production through an exchange of ideas among the nations leading corn growers.

Oxygen levels may cause fish to suffocate

By JERRY T. HARLOW
District Conservationist

BENTON — Spring and early summer is an important time of the year to keep a watch on your ponds stocked with fish.

Under certain conditions the oxygen supply in the water may be very low and cause fish losses due to suffocation. If the fish in your pond come to the top of the water and seem to be sucking at the surface, it is likely that the water is low in oxygen.. If nothing is done to increase the oxygen supply, many of the fish will begin to die.

One of the best ways to increase the oxygen supply in the water is to pump the water out of the pond, spray it into the air and let it fall back into the pond. If the oxygen supply is low the fish will begin to gather around where the spray is returning to the pond surface.

If your pump has a heavy stream instead of a spray you can allow it to spaletter off of a solid surface such as a board. The spray will then gather oxygen from the air before returning to the pond. When there is again enough oxygen in the water the fish will return to the deeper water areas and will no longer be visible on the surface.

Support for meat boycott growing

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer

Support for a week-long meat boycott starting the first of April appears to be growing daily just a month after two Los Angeles housewives concerned about high prices suggested the resistance.

Anger over high prices or simple financial necessity apparently is prompting many housewives to sharply reduce their meat buying. And contrary to President Nixon's opinion that a boycott would not be "an effective use of what we call 'people power,'" a buying cutback appears to be under way.

The American Meat Institute reports from Chicago that there was a drop in wholesale meat prices during the past week. Noting this, Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Adviers, told Washington newsmen Thursday:

"Something seems to be working back from the demand side. Consumer resistance may be having an effect."

The National Association of Food Chains said that in a recent telephone survey of 16 food chains, 15 reported they were ordering less beef than before. The Western States Meat Packers Association says West Coast meat wholesalers have cut their prices 2 to 3 cents a pound in response to pressure from consumers and the government.

Organizers of the boycott promise they'll have an even greater effect in April. Women are showing up at supermarkets across the nation to hand out boycott leaflets and circulate recipes for meatless meals.

In many stores shoppers already are boycotting the meat department on certain days of the week. If the one-week April boycott doesn't bring lower prices, supporters vow to extend it one, two or even three weeks.

"I think it's the phenomenon of the decade," says June Donavan of the boycott which she and her friend, Arline Mathews, conceived in a telephone conversation in late February. The two women estimate they've received more than 20,000 letters and hundreds of phone calls expressing support and seeking more information about forming Fight Inflation Together FIT clubs.

An Associated Press survey showed similar sentiments elsewhere.

—"I think it's a chance for consumers to grab on to something and fight back," says Eva Sartwell of Concord, N.H.

"We, the consumers, are the ones keeping the costs of meat high because meat is not in short supply."

—"If we don't buy the meat, the gorcery stores can't sell the meat," says Drema Thomas of Grove City, Ohio. "They will just have to order less until they bring the prices down or Nixon puts on a freeze."

—"This type of boycott where it is announced ahead of time and the butcher can adjust his order, this can only have a good effect," says Nell Weekley, director of the Mayor's Office of Consumer Affairs in New Orleans.

Boycott endorsements have come from Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire, delegates to a United Auto Workers Union convention in New York, the Consumer Federation of California, National Consumers United of Chicago, the Consumer Assembly of Greater New York and many other organizations.

Fowler appointed to PCA board of directors

Appointment of Ray Fowler of New Madrid Route One to the board of directors of Sikeston Production Credit Association has been announced by Robert A. Wright, president of the association.

Fowler fills a board vacancy caused by the death of Paul Bradley earlier this year.

Fowler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Fowler of New Madrid Route One and attended school at Kewanee. He farmed with his parents until completing his education at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau. He majored in agriculture and science and later taught science at New Madrid Elementary School.

Fowler worked as ingredient buyer for Ralston Purina for four years at Marston and one year at Montgomery City.

He started his farming career in 1961 and today farms 200 acres of cotton, 150 acres of wheat and 350 acres of soybeans. Fowler owns 76 acres and rents the balance of the land.

His father's farming operation is located nearby, and they have a "buddy system" arrangement on large equipment such as combines, cotton picker, etc., so both farming operations can benefit from the equipment.

Fowler and his wife, the former Carolyn Prince of Marston, now live in their new remodeled home one mile east of LaForge. They have two children, Tommy, 10, and Elizabeth, 7.

A Production Credit Association member since August 1962, he is serving his second term on the Sikeston field office advisory committee.

Other members of the Sikeston PCA board are Charles Causey of Bloomfield, chairman; E. E. Dement of Sikeston, vice chairman; Jimmy Bishop of East Prairie; and Louis Kalkbrenner of Poplar Bluff.

Findley wants to lower crop subsidies to $20,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Paul Findley, who led the fight to limit the amount farmers can collect in federal crop subsidy payments, says he hopes to get it lowered to $20,000 in the upcoming farm bill.

"The $55,000 limit now in effect is a ridiculously high figure and is not an effective limit. But it was a start," he said in an interview.

The $55,000 limitation on subsidies for cotton, wheat and feed grains was agreed upon in 1970 as a compromise, with the Illinois Republican arguing then that the figure should be lower.

"A government - guaranteed income of $20,000 a year compares very favorably to other levels of guaranteed income," he said.

It was largely through Findley's efforts that any limitation was enacted in 1970. He had been battling to restrict individual payments since 1967, claiming that the bulk of the payments were going to huge agribusiness corporations instead of to individual farmers.

But big operators, by nominally splitting up farms between members of their families, were able to collect several payments of $55,000 each and in some cases, received more money under the limitation than under the old plan.

Findley, who inserts in the Congressional Record each year a list of farmers who receive large subsidy payments, noted that whereas in 1968 there were 5,914 farmers who received a total of $273 million, in 1971 there were $13,751 who received $486 million.

Findley would like to see a five- year phaseout of income supplement payments to farmers and a phasing in of general land retirement.

Findley is not optimistic about phasing out income supplement payments. But he said "Congress is becoming more urband - oriented." He said of his colleagues on the House Agriculture Committee:

"This is the wrong year for them to go to the floor crying for more money for the farmer. With food prices the way they are, they are going to have to cater to the interests of city congressmen.

"I look forward to the day when government will no longer be involved in farming," Findley added.

Vanishing Indians

The Haida Indians were the vikings of North America's west coast, trading and raiding in 50-foot-long canoes. Settlers brought European diseases that decimated the tribe, and today only 1,500 live on the Queen Charlotte islands off British Columbia.

Food prices soar, but farmers may get less income

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Although food prices are soaring, American farmers may wind up with less net income this year than in 1972, the Federal Reservea Bank of San Francisco says.

The average farmer actually will have higher gross receipts in 1973 because of expanded production and favorable prices, the reserve bank said in a report released Thursday.

However, "much of this gain to farmers may be offset by a decline in government payments," the report added. "In addition, the expected rise in gross farm income may be wiped out completely by the continued rise in production expenses."

Net farm income thus could decrease 5 per cent from last year's all-time high of $19 billion to a total of $18 billion despite increasing food prices, the study said.

Seasonally adjusted food prices were up 2.2 per cent in February, the biggest increase since February, 1951, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Wednesday.

Farmers can look for cash receipts to increase from the 1972 record of $58.5 billion to a new peak of $62 billion, said the study of agricultural statistics by reserve bank economist Dean Chan. However, production costs are expected to increase from $47 billion to perhaps $51 billion.

"Furthermore, these price pressures should intensify this year in view of the rapidly growing need for machinery and materials, not to mention land and labor," the report continued.

"The 1973 farm picture is clouded by the fact that policy makers must deal with two conflicting goals-curbing food price inflation on the one hand and maintaining farm prosperity on the other."

Noting that "the administration views the upsurge in farm prices as the result of rapid expansion of demand relative to supply, rather than being due to cost-push factors," the reserve bank offered this prediction:

"Certain policy moves are inevitable: the relaxation of production restraints on 1973 crops, the sales of grain from government stocks and the lifting of import quotas on meat and dairy products."

Farm land can turn recreation profit

By MELVIN HAMM
Soil Conservation Technician

A new use for farm land is outdoor fun for city people who don't have room to play, hike, swim, or camp on their own grounds. The demand for open space for outdoor recreation is increasing each year. Urban residents are willing to pay for the privileges of enjoying outdoor activities on private owned land.

If you operate a farm chances are you can provide some form of outdoor recreation to paying guests. In fact almost any piece of rural land can be converted to some form of recreation use, such as golf courses, playing fields, ponds, woodlands or groves of trees for picnic areas and campgrounds.

If within reach of a paying market sale of recreation privileges may prove more profitable than producing crops, grazing livestock or cutting timber.

Many farmers and other rural residents in all parts of the county have already discovered that people from cities and towns will pay well for good recreation services and facilities.

Before investing heavily in a recreation enterprise for profit, you will want to judge your situation carefully, your market, you land and water resources and your own ability.

For assistance in developing recreation areas contact The Soil Conservation Service, Benton, Missouri.

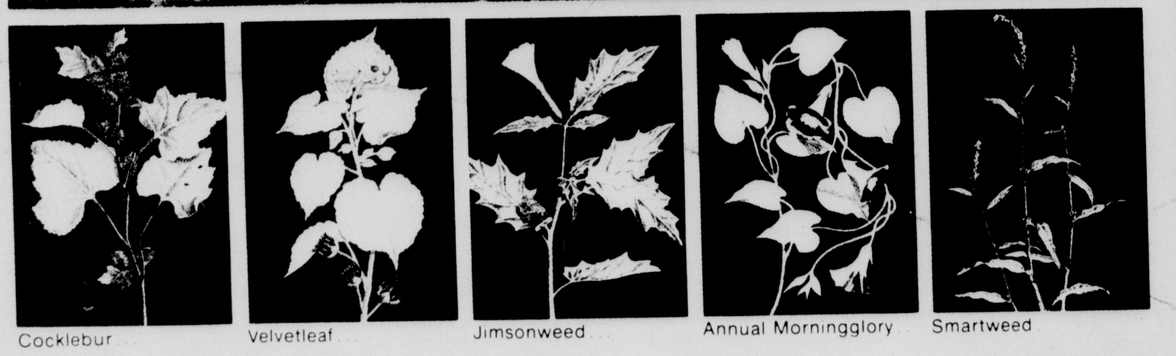
Stop broadleaf break through:



When you see some of these "uglies" coming through your weed control, you know you're in trouble, because most herbicides just can't handle them all. That's why so many Midwest bean producers are switching over to the Uniroyal "On Target" weed control program. It's a "good sense" approach to broadleaf pressure that can be adapted to almost any soil type and cultural practice.
UNIROYAL
As with any herbicide always follow instructions on the label.
The Dyanap® Piggyback Plan
If you're currently using an incorporated grass control herbicide, but need additional broadleaf protection, Uniroyal recommends the Dyanap Piggyback Plan. Applied just prior to bean emergence, Dyanap will contact kill most broadleaf weeds that are emerging or have emerged, plus provide residual control of later germinating types. Your incorporated chemical takes on the grasses. Dyanap gets the broadleafs. Stops easy-to-control types like pigweed, ragweed, purslane, lambsquarters, and wild mustard, plus the big, tough ones like cocklebur, velvetleaf, and annual morningglory. A dependable, low-cost answer to broadleaf pressure.

Farm families of the year

County farm families of the year were recognized at the annual Farmers Home Administration Farm Family of the Year banquet Friday evening at the Ramada Inn. They are from left, Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Carver of Bragg City, Pemiscot County; Kennett Webb of Sikeston, Scott County; Mr. and Mrs. Amos Linville of Campbell, Dunklin County, district winners; Mr. and Mrs. Charley Robinett of Bloomfield, Stoddard County; and Mr. and Mrs. Garland C. Boswell of Harviell, Butler County. New Madrid County winners were Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Coleman of Gideon who were not present.

Senators join to save program

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., has joined 14 other U.S. Senators in sponsoring legislation to save the Missouri Regional Medical Program based in Columbia.

Eagleton said the federal government had directed the regional program be phased out by June 30 of this year. The legislation would continue it through this period.

The Missouri senator said he and the other senators banded together to save the Missouri program and 55 other state programs.

The Missouri Regional Medical Program was allocated $1.7 million by the federal government last year.

Bond explains bathroom needs

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond sent a five-page letter to a state legislator Thursday explaining why new bathroom construction in the governor's mansion is costing $19,000.

"Major costs were incurred because of deficiencies in the wiring, plumbing and structure itself," Bond told Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, who inquired.

The "bathroom area problem" as Bond called it, is on the second floor of the mansion, where the governor and his wife will have living quarters. More than $65,000 is being spent on renovations, the money coming out of funds approved last year for capitol complex renovations.

"I am sure you will understand that the project in question is part of a continuing program to preserve this facility," Bond wrote, describing the mansion as "a landmark most prominent in Missouri history."

He said some electric wires were bare and others were overloaded. "Much of the wiring under the floor was wet from leaking drain lines," the governor said, and "a serious health hazard" resulted from toilet vents that terminated in the attic.

Earlier, Rep. James "Jay" Russell, D-Florissant, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, criticized Bond for spending $26,000 for the bathroom and a new kitchen. He said most Missourians do not have that much money invested in their homes.

The average American now eats more than seven pounds of pickles a year.

Cotton quality amendment proposed

CHICAGO — An amendment of the base quality used in spot cotton quotations work has been proposed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

If adopted, the amendment would change base quality from middling 1- inch to strict low middling 1 - 1/16 inches. The amendment would be effective Aug. 1, 1973, the beginning of the 1973 cotton marketing year.

Agricultural Marketing Service officials said that the change was proposed to establish a more accurate base price and to provide more meaningful premiums and discounts for cotton. To do this the base quality should be one for which price information is readily available. Production of Middling 1-inch cotton has amounted to less than one per cent of annual U.S. production since 1961. However, in seven of the last 10 years the predominant cotton quality has been strict low middling 1 -1/16 inches.

In quoting spot cotton prices the base quality price is determined first and stated in cents per pound. Differences are then determined for other qualities and are stated in points per pound (100 points equal one cent) as premiums or discounts above or below the base price.

The last change in base quality was made in 1956. The proposed revision is scheduled to appear in the Federal Register on March 21. Deadline for comments is April 6. Comments may be submitted in duplicate to the Hearing Clerk, Room 112-A, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

Idle state funds earn big interest

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Idle state funds have earned $4.8 million in interest in the 1972-73 fiscal year, says State Treasurer James I. Spainhower.

The total at this time last year was $3.5 million.

Spainhower, in a news conference Thursday, said there are more funds to invest and the interest rate is higher.

Spainhower also announced a six-member committee to review the operations of the treasurer's office and advise him on sate deposit of funds.

The members are:

Richard J. Mersinger, vice president of Mercantile Trust Co., St. Louis; Sam Fanara, vice president of First National Bank in St. Louis; Gerald R. Strong, an accountant with Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., Kansas City; Carl Giswold, vice president of Commerce Banshares Inc., Kansas City; Donald L. Campbell, president of the Exchange National Bank in Jefferson City; and Robert M. Robuck, vice president of the Central Trust Bank in Jefferson City.

The case of the resistant girdle

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Peggy found that while most things in life generally adjust themselves, her girdle was the stubborn exception. Consequently, she went to Flo- Flo's Fru- Fru Shop to buy a new one. Her confrontation with a girdle there, however, proved as harrowing and hazardous an experience as she had ever had.

In trying on a Gandhi girdle (passive resistance), Peggy tugged from the front while Flo- Flo struggled to bring up the rear. It was a real battle and Flo- Flor finally stopped to rest. While she did, Peggy continued the struggle on her own until she lost her balance. Falling on her well padded derriere, Peggy sued Flo- Flo for her injuries.

"After helping me to get all tangled up in that dang girdle," she complained in court, "Flo- Flo copped out on me. Leaving me to struggle with the girdle all alone was pure carelessness."

"That's not so," retorted Flo- Flo. "I did all I could to assist her. But with her figure, she didn't need me to help her get into that girdle. What she needed was a crowbar."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold Flo- Flo liable for Peggy's losing battle with the resistant girdle?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that Peggy's injuries were primarily due to the unusual hazards of trying to put on a girdle. In trying to help Peggy overcome those hazards, concluded the judge, Flo- Flo had exercised an appropriate amount of care.

said. He added that another cause for increased food prices is that supermarkets are now catering to the "lazy housewife", with precooked and freeze- dried food and strawberries and sweet corn available year around. "As long as there is this demand, the cost will be higher," McHaney said.

He added that 25 per cent of the convenience food cost increase is created by packagers and processors.

In 1950, 22.2 per cent of thepaycheck was spent for food, compared to 16 per cent in 1972, McHaney noted. A smaller amount of the paycheck during 1972 went for food in the U. S. than in the rest of the world, he said.

In the United States it takes workers 24 minutes of labor to buy one pound of sirloin, while in France it takes 110 minutes and in Russia, 131 minutes, McHaney reported.

Between 1957 and 1972, disposable income in the United States rose 222 per cent. The cost of services rose 250 per cent and cost of other goods rose 213 per cent, McHaney said, while the cost of food rose only 178 per cent.

"The cost of food increased less than any item the average person spends his buck for," McHaney told the group. He added that the farmer has not had a part in this. Food costs in that time rose $35.8 billion and the farmers received only $11.4 billion of this increase, 37 per cent.

McHaney noted that the price of beef did not reach the 1951 price until 1972. He added that, during this same time, farm labor costs two to three times and other costs increased more than two times.

"The price of farm products has been subnormal, but now farmers are getting a fair return," McHaney said. "Housewives have been getting the biggest bargain ever" in those 21 years, he added.

In the 20 years it took to gain back the 1951 beef price, city labor has gone up two and one- half times, McHaney noted. People in the cities are "barking up the wrong tree," he said. "Farmers have gotten the bad image and it's time some voice was raised in defense and explanation."

He noted that during most of the U. S. history, agriculture has been a favored subject and farmers had a great image. "Fifty years ago, to sponsor a bill for agriculture almost automatically meant it would pass," he said. "That time is gone forever. Now farmers are despised by Congress. Farmers are despised by newspaper writers ... and farmers are despised by commentators."

Today the votes are concentrated in the urban areas and politicians listen to them instead of the farm voters, he said.

A farm bill used to be a magic name, now it is a tainted name, McHaney said.

"We as farmers have done practically nothing about this," he added. "The farm industry is one small segment of society which does not finance their own research. The research is paid for by other people through the tax dollar.

"We as farmers must face up to reality," McHaney said. "We need research and must finance more of it."

In Missouri, cotton farmers contribute $1 per bale for cotton research. Anyone who demands it can get this money back. "A greater percentage of cotton farmers in Missouri demanded more money back than any other state," Mchaney said.

He noted that national farm organizations are never all unified behind one program. It is not easy to unify such a large group with such diverse interests, but it needs to be done, he added.

Agriculture needs a strong, unified voice, he said. The farmer's image will get worse if we don't suppor and utilize research and find a spokesman, he added.

Harry S. Littleton, district supervisor of FHA, who introduced the farm families, said that FHA has 1,800 county office units in the U.S. with 8,000 employes. In Missouri there are 268 permanent employes and in this district there are 32 employes, he said. Nationwide, FHA has $5 billion of loans outstanding. FHA is a credit agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Farm Family of the Year is a national contest within the USDA- FHA which starts at the county level.

Hilton Bracy of Portageville, vice president of the Mid- Continent Farmers Association Delta Area Public Affairs, said the farm program now in effect expires this year and it will be a difficult task to get anything close to a working program. He noted a lack of interest in Congress, in the administration and in Southeast Missouri.

Jaycees planning for Stoddard fair

DEXTER — The Dexter Jaycees are in the final stages of planning for the 1973 Jaycee Stoddard County Fair to be held Sept. 17-22, according to Ron Hall, president.

This year the Jaycees plan to construct a new arena and a 40 by 168 foot building to house the cattle and hog exhibits. As a result of joining the Missouri Tractor Pull Association, the Jaycees plan a big tractor pulling contest on Friday night of fair week.

The Jaycees have also secured the David Houston show with Arlene Hardin for two country and western music shows at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Rose City Rides will return to the fair for the third year in a row.

The Stoddard County parade will again kick off fair week on Monday night, Sept. 17.

Chairman for this year's fair is Bill Cryts. Other members of the Jaycee Fair Board include Bill Settles, Denton Musgrave, Roy Minton, Paul Strickland, Glen Tucker and Hall.

"Double Shock"

MARCH 25 (7:30— 9 P.M., IN COLOR)

Martin Landau guest- stars in a dual role as twin brothers suspected of murdering their wealthy uncle. Peter Falk stars as Columbo.

Shortly before aging physical- fitness buff Clifford Paris (Paul Stewart) is to marry young Lisa Chambers (Julie Newmar), he is found dead. Lt. Columbo (Falk) suspects Paris did not die of a heart attack as had first been suspected.

In his dual role, Landau portrays Dexter Paris, a flamboyant TV cooking show host, and his twin brother, Norman, a conservative banker.

Jeanette Nolan guest- stars as the murdered man's testy housekeeper and Tim O'Connor appears as Robert Hathaway, the family attorney.

The drama was written by Steven Bocho and Pater Allan Fields from a story by Jackson Gillis, Richard Levinson and William Link. Robert Butler directed.

Woodrow Wilson's Painful Choice On

"You Are There"

Sunday, March 25

"Ordeal of a President," the re- creation of the dramatic sequence of events which led to President Woodrow Wilson's reluctant decision to involve the United States in World War I, will be rebroadcast in "You Are There" Sunday, March 25 (4:00— 4:30 PM,) on the CBS Television Network. (Originally presented on the Network on September 8, 1971.)

The episode focuses on March 2, 1917, when the events leading to America's involvement in the war began. On that day, newspapers around the country published the purported contents of the Zimmerman telegram, in which Germany proposed an alliance with Mexico and promised to help her regain lost territory on United States soil.

NBC-TV's 'Escape':

When the parents realize the children are lost, they call Los Angeles County deputies of the Emergency Services Detail and Sergeant Nordlaw (Mitchell) leads the rescue efforts.

Ned Romero portrays Ramirez and Lew Brown is John. Daryl Henry and Paul Savage wrote the drama; Gene Nelson directed.

NO BATTERY HEARING AID

COST OF BATTERIES - GOING HIGHER AND HIGHER - NO END IN SIGHT.

(ST. LOUIS SPECIAL). An all new hearing aid that eliminates normal changing of batteries has been developed and is saving money for hearing aid users throughout the country. The hearing aid is moderate in price, yet superior to other much higher priced instruments. The nickel cadium power cell eliminates changing batteries and does away with background noise and hum in the amplifier. The automatic suppression circuit controls those too loud noises, helps your hearing and understanding in church, noisy restaurants, in traffic and corwds. Rebroadcast of "The Goalkeeper Also Lives On Our Street"

March 31

The universal tale of a boy's dream of glory-- in this case, winning an ice hockey game-- forms the basis for "The Goalkeeper Also Lives on Our Street," a Czechoslovakian motion picture to be rebroadcast on "The CBS Children's Film Festival" Saturday, March 31 (12 Noon— 1:00 PM,) on the CBS Television Network. (Originally broadcast on the Network on March 10, 1968.)

Burr Tillstrom's Kukla, Fran and Ollie with Fran Allison are hosts of "The CBS Children's Film Festival."

NBC-TV's 'The Little People': "Sean Meets Double X-7"

Friday, March 30

A 10- year- old with a super imagination infiltrates Dr. Sean's (Brian Keith) office under the disguise of a secret agent (Double X- 7), causing pandemonium as he makes things disappear-- until Sean calls in his own "agent." Brian Keith and Shelley Fabares are series stars.

Kenny Phelps (Michael Morgan), in his fantasy world, figures Dr. Sean's office as enemy headquarters and he proceeds to disrupt the routine by stealing a young patient's balloon, snatching an employee's sandwich, and finally putting tranquilizers in the pineapple punch. When Sean finally catches Double Z- 7, he puts his own imagination to work and brings the whole merry caper to an end.

Tony Randall is the "giant" guest discussing the topic "Will The Real Me Please Stand Up." (Repeat of Jan. 6, 1973.)

With Randall are teen- agers Janet Broderick and Jon Rucker. They explore such questions as "who am I?", "who would I like to be?", "can I make my own future, or will others shape me?" and "whom do I admire?"

The Show You'll Never See!

"Movie Orgy - Part II"

NEW YORK (AP) — The television program listing says: "Movie Orgy (Part II). More memories of a thousand hours of TV idiocy and a hundred Saturday matinees."

You'll never see the show on your commercial or public television station. But it's probably playing four and five times a day on scores of college and university closed-circuit systems.

It's part of a collection of videotape programs put together by a small New York company, the Video Tape Network, which aims the package strictly at the college and university student.

The company, in business three years now, currently has 234 schools as "affiliates," according to John S. Lollos, a VTN vice president and one of the company's 16 full-time staff members.

Lollos, who was director of program promotion for the NBC Television network until he quit four years ago, got the idea for his closed-circuit corporation from darkened television sets, oddly enough.

He was touring colleges campuses with "Groove Tube," a privately produced videotape satire of commercial television that he was leasing for use on closed-circuit campus television systems.

"As I looked around the campuses, I saw nothing but dark sets," he said. "They weren't being played."

He said he knew from his network experience there was a sizeable college audience — among others — that commercial television didn't reach because it was geared to mass viewing tastes.

"From our 'Groove Tube' experience, we found that a lot of people were very turned on by specialized television," he said. "And they kept saying, 'How do we get more shows?'"

District Farm Family of Year named

Linvilles named District Farm Family of Year

The farmer's image in the eyes of the American public is at its lowest ebb in years, and the image will get worse if farmers don't support research and farm organizations cannot unify in support of a farm program, Flake L. McHaney of Kennett, Circuit Court judge of the 35th judicial district, told almost 100 listeners Friday night at the Farmers Home Administration's Farm Family of the Year banquet at Ramada Inn.

Prior to McHaney's remarks, six county farm families of the year were introduced and the district farm family of the year was announced. Mr. and Mrs. Amos Linville of Campbell Route One were named District Farm Family of the Year. They will now compete in the state contest.

County Farm Families of the Year included:

Scott County, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Webb of Sikeston Route Four; Stoddard County, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Robinett of Bloomfield Route Three; New Madrid County, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Coleman of Gideon; Pemiscot County, Mr. and Mrs. Winfred F. Carver of Bragg City Route One; and Butler County, Mr. and Mrs. Garland C. Boswell of Harviell Route One.

The Linvilles own 480 acres and rent 80 acres used mostly for row crops, although they do have a few beef cows. Linville cleared most of the land he now owns and farms. The respect of his neighbors was demonstrated when they selected him to accompany the attorney representing farmers in the area on a trip to Washington to seek relief after the flood in 1965.

The district contest was sponsored by the Missouri Farmers Association.

In his speech following the family of the year presentation, McHaney called on farmers to support research projects and for unification of support of farm programs by farm organizations.

He said that farmers are being blamed for the great increase in food prices, and not a voice is being raised in opposition.

The modern supermarket is a small department store and the food dollar is going for items other than food, which causes an apparent increase in the food dollar, McHaney noted.

"In 1972, 28 per cent of supermarket sales had no relation to food," McHaney

$70,000 approved for airport work

The Ozark Regional Planning Commission has announced the approval of $70,000 in funds for the improvement of the Sikeston Memorial Airport.

The project will cost $280,000 for the first phase of construction, which will include resurfacing the runway and taxiway, paving the crosswind runway, and lighting the main runway.

The second phase, to be done at a later date, will cost about $145,000. It will include the acquisition of additional land and the extension of the main runway.

Work on the project should begin in August, after all the red tape has been cleared, according to City Manager Jim Huff.

Cost of the project, $425,000, and the required local funds of $117,500 are both far above the original estimates which placed the cost at $225,000, with the city putting up $22,500 in local funds.

The city has applied for $140,000 in funds from the Federal Aviation Administration and will receive $25,000 in state funds.

The city must supply $45,000 for the first phase of construction. The money will come out of the airport fund and the general revenue fund, according to Huff.

Huff said the airport project was split into two phases to speed up the work. He said the land acquisition and runway extension involves a 45 day waiting period while the environmental impact of the project is considered.

The Planning and Zoning Commission in its revenue - expenditure study estimated the cost of the project at only $225,000. It estimated federal funds would total $202,500 and the cost to the city and airport fund would be only $22,500.

However, while costs were underestimated, outside sources will supply more funds than estimated. FAA will supply $212,500, the ORC $70,000 and the state $25,000. The city will have to supply $117,500.

Huff said preliminary figures on the project were too low, because some of the figures were underestimated and some were based on paving standards that had to be revised, raising the cost of the project.

The increased cost of the airport project may imperil some of the items on the expenditure revenue study. Huff said the cost "will have to be considered" when the city council decides what municipal improvement programs the city should undertake. No decisions have yet been made, Huff said.

Taylor bound over on rape charge

NEW MADRID — Charles Taylor, 50, of Matthews Friday was bound over to Circuit Court on a statutory rape charge following a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Probate Judge John Bailey, who served in the absence of Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

Taylor is accused by his 15- year - old stepdaughter of fathering her unborn child, resulting from intercourse with her in August 1972 at the family home.

The girl, who now lives on Holcomb Route One, said she had sex relations with her stepfather for the first time about a week after her 15th birthday and again about a week later. The family then lived in Matthews.

Under cross - examination by Taylor's court- appointed attorney, she denied having sex relations with a man named Sam Taylor who stayed for about a week in a small building next to the girl's home while her stepfather worked on the man's truck.

She said she had reached the eighth grade in school, had no boy friends and had not had sex relations with anyone except her stepfather.

Lowell Huls of Matthews, a plumber and electrician who had employed Taylor part-time, testified for the defense. He said he had heard the girl say she had intercourse with Sam Taylor. Her statement was made, he said, in the presence of her stepfather and her brothers.

Huls further stated he had never heard the girl say she had intercourse with Charles Taylor.

Taylor is being held under $2,500 bond.

Shooting suspect jailed

EAST PRAIRIE — Gary Wayne Woods, 28, of East Prairie is being held in Mississippi County Jail in Charleston in connection with the shooting death of Manuel Hollis Gilliam, 37, of Matthews Route One. Murder charges are expected to be filed today.

The shooting occurred about 12:45 a.m. today outside of PeeWee's Tavern, near the north city limits.

According to Sheriff W. J. (Pedro) Simmons, witnesses said Woods and Gilliam had been arguing inside the tavern over who could whip whom. The argument continued outside after the tavern closed. Woods, reportedly was sitting in his truck when he pointed a .22 caliber pistol out the window and shot Gilliam once in the left side of the chest. Gilliam was pronounced dead at the scene by Mississippi County Coroner Elgin McMikle.

No formal inquest is scheduled.

Woods left the tavern parking lot and drove to the police station where he informed the radio operator he was going home. He was arrested a short time later at his home by Police Sgt. Llyle Scott and City patrolman Bill Grissom.

Gilliam was born June 16, 1935 in Dorena and was employed by Beck & Plunk farms of Matthews.

On Oct. 28, 1956 he married Barbara Miller, who survives.

Also surviving are four daughters, Evelyn, Cynthia, Laura and Elaine Gilliam, all of the home; his father, Ted Gilliam of Dorena; his mother, Mrs. Alta Mae Hardley of Whitt, Tex.; one brother, James Gilliam of Blythe, Calif.; one half brother, Teddy Gilliam of Dorena and two half sisters, Mrs. Peggy Merryman and Miss Joyce Gilliam of Dorena.

Visitation will be after 6 p.m. today in Shelby Funeral Home in East Prairie where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Sunday. The Rev. Robert Cates, pastor of the Little Vine Baptist Church will officiate.

Burial will be in East Prairie Memorial Park Cemetery.

Man shot at Grant City

Ardean (Smokey) Johnson of Route One was reportedly shot early this morning at the home of Calvin Bell of Grant City, according to Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman.

Johnson was treated and released from Missouri Delta Community Hospital for a 16-gauge shotgun wound in the chest. His wounds were not considered serious.

Inman said Johnson's wife reportedly left him and went to Bell's house two miles east of Grant City. Johnson allegedly went to get her and was shot by Bell during an argument.

Inman said no arrests have been made thus far.

Theft suspect is arrested

Police arrested Robert L. Blackman, 21, of Benton Route One at 2 a.m. today on charges of stealing a motor vehicle after he was stopped while driving a pickup truck owned by Larry Lance of Benton Route One.

Patrolman Leslie Dubose stopped Blackman just three minutes after Sikeston received a call from Lance that his pickup had been stolen while parked at Hamilton's Cafe in Haywood City.

Purse stolen

A purse belonging to Mrs. John McMullin, 505 N. Ranney St., was stolen from her car while it was parked at the McMullin home, according to police.

A neighbor saw a young man reach into the car and take the purse about 5:45 p.m., police said. The car was parked on Woodlawn Street at the time.

Mrs. McMullin said the purse contained a charge card, $10 in bills, a $5 check and personal papers.

New Clerk receives training

Temporary job stretched to 31 years of service

By NADINE TOWNSEND

NEW MADRID — Mrs. Evelyn P. Price of Morehouse, clerk for New Madrid County Assessor J. Preston Utterback, is retiring March 30 from a job that began as temporary employment 31 years ago under the federal Works Program Administration.

Mrs. Price recalls that tax collections on much of the real estate in the county used to be impossible before 1942 when real estate was listed by descriptions such as "Jones Piggy Lot in Portageville or designated as the lot south of Mr. Brown near the railroad".

When Judge O. R. Rhodes of Gideon, who was presiding judge of the County Court, heard of a successful real estate card system in use in St. Charles County, he made a trip there to find out about the process. When he returned, he wanted the system in New Madrid County.

Mrs. Price was one of six persons hired under the WPA program to set up a similar system. They worked for two years, she said, preparing file cards containing a legal description and ownership for every tract of land in the county.

She looks back now with amusement as she remembers the jokes, criticism and ridicule made by citizens concerning WPA workers. Many were considered freeloaders on the government payroll.

Yet it was her initiative and dependability on the WPA job that resulted in Judge Rhodes recommending that the county give her full-time employment in the assessor's office following completion of the WPA work.

Today, according to the state tax commission, her card system is the finest and most complete in the state.

When Mrs. Price says, "I have really enjoyed all of my work because it was a challenge to me when I started," it is understandable that New Madrid County has the only alphabetical cross indexed files on real estate transfers in the state.

Modest and unassuming in manner, she said of her retirement, "I just want to slip away unnoticed and without fanfare," but that is hardly possible when she is called upon for assistance by so many persons -- from the small homeowner to bankers, lawyers, realtors, developers and large landowners.

"Evelyn can hear a legal land description and she knows just right where it is in New Madrid County," commented Utterback, with whom she has worked since 1952.

Because of her long familiarity with surveys, plats, deed descriptions and working closely with the county surveyor, a metes and bounds description presents few problems for her in scaling a tract of land which might contain rights- of- way for a railroad, drainage ditch or a river.

Her greatest challenge, perhaps, she said, was working out singlehandedly legal descriptions and ownerships for 4,200 acres from just a sheet of paper containing only a rough outline and directional boundaries. Later she learned this area was to be optioned for St. Jude Industrial Park near Marston, which is now owned by the city of New Madrid.

The number of transfers in farmland ownerships have decreased in recent years. However, Mrs. Price noted that 1972 set a record for total land transfers due to the opening of many small subdivisions in rural areas.

In the past she would spend one day in the recorder of deeds office taking off transactions. Now takeoffs are made daily except for one day a week, but "my work is not as hard because I am furnished photo copies of deeds," she said.

Mrs. Price was born, reared and educated in Morehouse. Her hobbies include flower gardening, needlework and she likes to cook.

Commenting on her retirement, she said, "I hope to be able to do a few things I haven't been able to do over the years. My work always came first in the past 30 years. My main project will be getting settled in a new home after living all these years in the home where I was born -- and I have a new rose bush I am so anxious to get set out."

Without a doubt, that rosebush is going to bloom abundantly.

Wife's testimony will stand in murder case

BENTON — A motion to exclude the testimony of Mrs. Christian Russell in the first- degree murder trial of her husband, Cletus Russell, has been overruled by Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig. Russell is charged with murdering his stepson, Terry Lee Christy, on July 28, 1972.

The motion to exclude Mrs. Russell's testimony was filed on the basis that she is incompetent to testify by reason of her marriage relationship with Russell.

Mrs. Russell has been subpoenaed by the state to appear as a witness against Russell when the trial resumes Friday in Circuit Court.

Judge Craig has had the motion under advisement since March 1 when Russell's defense attorney and Thomas Gilmore, acting as special prosecuting attorney met with the judge to argue the legality of the motion.

Mrs. Russell testified against her husband in a preliminary hearing over the strong objection of Russell's attorney. Gilmore said he had expected the motion to be filed because of the husband- wife relationship, but the state took the position that the normal rule of a wife testifying against her husband did not apply to this situation.

In reaction to the judge's decision, Gilmore said he was pleased the judge is allowing Mrs. Russell to testify because he thought this would allow him to properly present the case to the jury.

Christy, 17, was shot to death about 12:45 p.m. in front of his home, after he and Russell had been scuffling in the front yard. Christy reportedly pushed his stepfather against the house door with enough force to break it.

Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said Russell fired three shots from a .38- caliber pistol, striking Christy twice, once in the left jaw and once in the back.

Mrs. Russell testified in the preliminary hearing that her husband had shot at her during the scuffle while she was running to Christy after Russell had shot him in the jaw. Mrs. Russell also testified that she had been in the front yard along with her husband and son during the argument.

Witnesses for the defense testified that Mrs. Russell was nowhere in sight at the time of the shooting.

Christy was pronounced dead upon arrival at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Bar president

DEXTER — Stephen Mitchell was elected president of the Stoddard County Bar Association Friday at the Hickory Log restaurant.

Claude Arnold was elected vice president and Paul McGhee was selected secretary - treasurer. Outgoing president is Prosecuting Attorney Tom Baker.

NOTED AND PASSED

Editor A. E. Ferguson of the Richie Gazette, Harrisville, West Virginia passed on the story of a local minister who was taken to task by a Women's Lib advocate who argued that "even the Church is pro-male." She said: "Why do they say Amen instead of awoman?"

The unflustered minister calmly replied, "Because we sing Hymns and not Hers."

THINK 'FIRE EINGINE YELLOW'

Everybody knows why a fireman wears red suspenders. Many people may not be aware, though, that the traditional red fire engine is on the way out. The recommended color today is bright yellow.

The reason is greater visibility on streets and highways and thus greater safety, especially at night, explains American La France of Elmira, N.Y., one of the world's leading manufacturers of firefighting equipment.

So if anyone ever asks you why a fireman drives a yellow fire engine, tell him: To hold up traffic, of course.

A recent Gallup survey has found that crime and crime-related problems of drugs topped the list of concerns of residents of cities and communities of all sizes across the nation. In addition, 51 per cent of all persons interviewed think there is more crime in the areas where they live then there was a year ago, while only 10 per cent say there is less.

Also, when persons in the Gallup survey were asked whether they thought the courts in their area dealt too harshly with criminals, 74 per cent said not harshly enough. A majority of blacks (64 per cent) shared the same view.

LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE THESE ISSUES

Some measures continue to come up at each session of The Legislature and plague the members of our law- making bodies because they are extremely controversial.

Of these, two stand out in the present session.

One is the Blue Laws, which would prohibit doing business on Sunday, the first day of each week. Many want them repealed, others do not.

Another is public tax-provided financial aid to private and church schools.

In neither case are we being fair to our Legislators to ask them to make the decision, when tempers on both sides run so high in discussions of the proposals.

The people of Missouri should be given the opportunity to vote on both, then whatever the result, they should be allowed to lie dormant for many years.

The Appeal hopes the Legislators vote to put them both on the ballot so that "The will of the people is the supreme law", can be implemented as a fact, instead of fiction, as sometimes happens.

A third measure might be added. That is the proposed law that would authorize a state lottery. Not many people in this area would favor it, but there are many in Missouri who would do so and we think they should be allowed to express their desires.

Federal expenditure control became a major issue in the Congress last year, but the issue was in no way resolved. The issue came to the forefront through President Nixon's urging of Congress that it enact a $250 billion ceiling on fiscal year 1973 spending. Without such a spending ceiling, federal expenditures could well reach $258- 260 billion and result in a highly inflationary deficit exceeding $30 billion. Nevertheless, the House and Senate failed to agree on the spending ceiling and left the problem in the hands of the President.

While favorable action by the Congress on the President's ceiling request would have relieved the fiscal problems of fiscal 1973, it would only have been a stop-gap measure, though an important one. There have been times in the past, as in 1964 and 1968, when Federal spending control became a major issue. But now it is, or at least should be, the major domestic issue before Congress. A citing of a few facts on recent expenditure growth shows why.

In brief, Federal spending totaled:

-- $16.5 billion in the first 111 years, 1790- 1900.

-- $150 billion in the next 40 years, 1901- 1940.

-- $535 billion in the next 10 years, 1941- 1950

-- $744 billion in the next 10 years, 1951- 1960

-- $553 billion in the next 5 years, 1961- 1965.

-- $853 billion in the next 5 years, 1966- 1970.

-- $695 billion (est.) in the next 3 years, 1971- 1973.

And, unless vigorous spending restraints are soon applied, the total in the coming three years, 1974- 1976, will be close to $900 billion.

The rising per capital cost of Federal spending -- in 1940 were $72.83

-- in 1950 were $286.32

-- in 1960 were $514.28

-- in 1970 were $967.53

-- in 1972 were $1,110.32

In 1973 spending per capital will rise to about $1,187 as a minimum, with $1,210 being more likely. Without vigorous expenditure restraints, the per capital figure will reach about $1,375 by 1975.

The substantial, and virtually uninterrupted, deterioration in the value of the dollar since 1940 obviously accounts in part for the increase in Federal spending as well as personal incomes and consumer expenditures. If the per capital Federal expenditure figures above are adjusted to a constant dollar according to the consumer price index, the inflation factor is removed. The per capital expenditure growth then appears as follows:

1940-- $174.23
1950-- $399.33
1960-- $584.40
1970-- $856.22
1972-- $900.50
1973-- $945.00 (est.)

As it stands today, the American people are faced with more deficits, higher taxes, or spending restraint. The end of large scale Federal deficit financing is not in sight before 1977 at the earliest unless spending growth is much better restrained or new taxes are imposed by the Congress.

The general public can make a choice. It can do nothing and accept the inflationary consequences of continued large deficits or the burden of additional taxes, whichever the President and the Congress may choose. Or the public can demand tighter control of expenditure growth.

The record shows that Federal spending can be controlled when there is a will in Congress and the Executive Branch to do so. Furthermore, citizens can make sure that the will is there by seriously requesting their elected representatives to support and practice expenditure restraint.

This is the major domestic issue and don't let anyone divert your attention with political double talk.

I've noticed washing instructions on leather clothes in some stores. How come leather is washable now?

A new tanning process allows leather to retain its softness and prvents shrinking after washing. However, all leather clothes are not washable. Before buying and washing leather, read the label for washability and washing instructions.

Why don't manufacturers standardize directions for the use of fabric softeners?

Formulas for these products are so varied that directions for their use must be tailored to fit the product. Basically there are two types of fabric softeners: one type is added in the rinse cycle; a newer type can be used in either the wash or rinse cycle. It is very important not to add other agents such as bluing, water conditioner, etc. when using products formulated to use with the rinse cycle. That's why it's impossible for manufacturers to standardize directions for fabric softeners as well as many consumer products on the market today.

Is bluing supposed to clean or bleach clothes?

Bluing does not clean or bleach. It counteracts yellowing. Many of today's detergents and laundry aids contain bluing agents or brightners. If the label stresses brightening action, you can assume it contains "optical brighteners." When using such products, you don't need bluing. Bluing is available in granules, liquids, cubes and pellets. It's important to read the directions before adding to find out if it should be dissolved and diluted before use.

CULTIVATE THE MANAGER

I represent a good product and sales in the supermarket near to my home were excellent. To try and find out how much more would be sold if it were featured in a large floor display, I persuaded my friend, the store manager, to build a large display and keep count at the end of each day of how many had been bought from the display. We already had a fairly accurate count (37) of daily sales from the shelf.

We were elated to discover that during the first 6 days after the display was up, sales averaged 49 a day. However, we did not know that there were no items on the shelf. The boy who had erected the pyramid had moved all units off the shelf to complete his display.

Thus the 49 represented total sales, not additional sales. Shoppers who were accustomed to finding it on the shelf may or may not have located it on the display. No doubt some of them had assumed the store was out of stock.

When we finally filled both the shelf and the display and kept count over a 2-week stretch, we sold an average of 26 units a day from the display and 39 from the shelf, for an overall increase of 76%.

It is interesting to note that shelf sales showed a slight increase (from 37, to 39), probably due to the advertising value of the display.

CUT HANGMAN'S NOOSE

A feature story in The New York Times reports that the utility commissioners of eight eastern states have appealed to U. S. Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel to replenish the nation's dwindling reserves of natural gas by fostering a more rapid development of new gas supplies. An indication of the growing gas shortage is the action of the New York State Public Service Commission in announcing contemplated new customer restrictions upon finding that the state's utilities were "rapidly reaching a critical situation."

The irony of the threatened gas shortage can be described as nothing less than momumental. Leaders of the oil and gas industry have been warning for more than a decade of percisely the situation that has developed. There is plenty of natural gas in the ground to supply the nation for years to come, but it remains locked in the ground because of a regulatory decision years ago that imposed utility type rate making on the risky business of gas exploration and production. In order to "benefit" consumers, gas prices were held below the incentive level, thus killing the development of new reserves. The utility commissioners of the eight eastern states urge greater economic incentives for gas producers. Until now, the warnings of petroleum and gas industry spokesmen that adequate incentives and adequate petroleum and gas supplies are two sides of the same coin have fallen on deaf ears.

Natural gas has become a major factor in the overall energy picture. Shortsighted regulatory measures that kill incentive and curtail exploration and development of oil and gas reserves are nothing more than a hangman's noose to a nation whose life depends on the energy from these natural resources. The noose should be loosened at once.

Nixon Firm on Rent Decontrol

WASHINGTON— The White House was taken aback by the rise in rents after controls were lifted on January 11. Nevertheless, President Nixon is sticking to his guns and opposing the move by Congress to reimpose mandatory rent controls in metropolitan areas.

White House sources tell us that the President is convinced there's no economic justification for the sharp rise in rents. He believes unscrupulous landlords have taken advantage of decontrol to boost rents and fatten their bank accounts. But, in the long run, he is confident rents will settle down.

The President went ahead with rent decontrol after a study, intended for the eyes only of his economic advisers, concluded: "The economic basis exists for rent decontrol at the present time. Any jump in price would be small and local and not the start of a new skyrocketing tendency. The rental market is generally soft and getting softer."

Contrary to this prediction, rents zoomed in many areas. Yet the President's advisers still believe the economic factors justify decontrol. They are apprehensive, however, over the "political repercussions."

The rent study acknowledged, for example, that "lopping off" rents from wage- price controls would be politically risky "give the special contempt of the public for landlords."

Cautioned the study: "Public trust in wage and price controls rests on the belief that they are equitable and this belief rests on the view that all forms of income-- wages, executive salaries, business profits, rents and corporate dividends-- should go up only moderately."

The memo added that decontrol "would probably weaken public confidence in the equity of the program and would, therefore, lead to less cooperation and compliance..., Americans not being the most patient people in the world."

Footnote: The Senate overrode White House objections and passed a rent control bill this week by a convincing 50- to- 38 margin. The House is expected to concur.

Broken Promises

Spanish- Americans, after a whirlwind political courtship during the 1972 campagn, are complaining bitterly that President Nixon hasn't kept his promises to them.

As the election approached, he poured an estimated $47 million into projects for Spanish- speaking Americans. The money, part of which had been withheld previously by the Administration, was funneled through the Health, Education and Welfare Department, the Housing and Urban Development Department and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

At least $20 million went into the areas of California and Texas with large Spanish-American populations. The highest ranking Spanish-Americans in the Administration, antipoverty director Philip Sanchez and mass transportation administrator Carlos Villareal, also toured the country at the taxpayers' expense, telling what the President was doing for the Spanish speaking population.

As the money began falling like autumn leaves, one Latino employment service, called Ser, meaning "to be" in Spanish, was promised a 50 per cent fund increase by President Nixon himself at a special White House ceremony. His interest in Spanish- American affairs, he told them, was not "a one- shot deal."

The President's campaigners courted the Latinos and Chicanos with bilingual brochures, films and galas. One such wingding in San Antonio featured the President's brother, Donald Nixon, and Latin movie star Ricardo Montalban. Tickets to the affair were sold through the United Businessmen of San Antonio, a federally- funded organization offering technical assistance to minority merchants.

The campaign was effective. The Spanish- American vote went Republican in many areas which had long been Democratic strongholds.

But now, both Sanchez and Villareal, who campaigned so hard to drum up Spanish-American support for the President, have lost their high posts. Ser received a telegram in January rescinding the funding increases personally promised by the President. Our informants say even the United Businessmen soon will be phased out.

Military Mustache

An episode at President Nixon's inaugural has become the hottest "cause celebre" in military meleee over hairstyles.

Without further ceremony, Graves personally trimmed the mustache. So incensed was the enlisted man that he filed a complaint with the inspector general's office at Fort Meade which, however, decided the complaint was "nonactionable."

Nevertheless, Graves admits his scissors assault probably was in technical violation of regulations. This leaves standing the question of whether he practiced barbering without a license. "I thought I did it very neatly," said Graves. The enlisted man begged us not to reveal his name, saying he feared reprisal worse than the shortening of his mustache.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK-- Picking up steam and considerable heat, the militant but peaceful black power force inside labor, the Caolition of Black Trade Unionists (CBTU--- which will soon be as much a household and political inner- circle phrase as the NAACP) launched its first attack on a popular major labor chief.

It is the beginning. Black thunder will be followed by swift streaking lightning. The coalition has hit hard at the 44- year- old, popular prodigy of elderly labor chiefs. He's lanky, perpetually dieting Al Shanker, president of the world's largest local, New York's 70,000- member United Federation of Teachers (UFT), first vice president of the 250,000- member American Federation of Teachers (AFT), and leader of a coalition of some 186,000 New York state teachers.

Youngish, hard- driving, intellectually pragmatic with a touch of genius at union organizing-- which he got from his mother, once a member of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union, and from his father, a union newspaper deliveryman-- Shanker is seen by insiders as well on his way to the inner circles of labor's high command. Already, though not a national union chief, he is being discussed as a potential recruit for the AFL—CIO Executive Council.

But the CBTU, made up of influential black trade unionists, respected in all labor milieus, hit Shanker as a racist.

Rarely has such bitterness been publicly aired. The CBTU, and its five- man steering committee, how heading for a second national convention May 25- 27, laid it right on the line. There is a resolution being circulated which begins with:

"Whereas, Albert Shanker, as a member of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Teachers, has worked against the best interests of black teachers, black children and the black community in general, and has used racism in the city of New York to divide black and white teachers..."

From then on the other "whereases" get tough. Here it should be reported that some 16,000 members of Shanker's Local 2 are black and Puerto Rican. This is some 22 per cent of the local union's membership. They span the color spectrum--- and job classifications. All the way from hard- core paraprofessionals to highly paid teachers.

As for the second: "Whereas, Albert Shanker induced the majority membership of the UFT, which is white, and which under his leadership has engaged in actions which are inimical to the welfare of black children and their parents.

"Whereas, Shanker has initiated or supported actions to remove from AFT leadership all black men and women who have ever had the courage to speak against his acts of overt and obvious racism, as in the case of Richard Parrish of his own local, William Simons of Washington (D.C.), and Rosa McGee of Tennessee and James Warnick of Delaware--- all former black Vice Presidents of the American Federation of Teachers whom Shanker was instrumental in removing from office because they failed or refused to do his bidding..."

The resolution also charges that Carol Graves, president of the Newark Teachers Union (who has been jailed several times for defying anti- strike court injunctions), was insulted by Shanker.

These are serious charges, powder- keg protests and a public black challenge inside labor. Shanker and his many colleagues point out that the black teachers named in the resolution were defeated in full democratic elections. They were members of a caucus which is as natural in a union as a cactus in an Airzona desert. Parrish formerly was assistant treasurer of Local 2. His caucus-- black and white-- was beaten 10 to 1 in an election.

There is more to the resolution which was passed late last month at the black coalition's Chicago assembly--- one of many such gatherings leading up to the national convention.

At the end of the document, the resolution proclaims "that this Regional Assembly of Black Trade Unionists call upon the Chicago Teachers Union to reconsider the contemplated display of Albert Shanker as an honored guest speaker at the May 1973 Education Conference in the interest of maintaining the harmonious relationships welded between all elements of the trade union movement in Chicago during the recent 12- day strike. (Signed) The Coalition of Black Trade Unionists."

Shanker, quite grave, tells me he still is scheduled to speak. Bill Lucy, the respected black American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees national secretary treasurer, tells me there will be picketing and demonstrations.

There are many issues here which may well shake the labor movement far more than the headlined stories on the other fronts. Black labor is on the march. Led by high officials of several unions including the United Auto Workers, they are crossing into the internal politics of other autonomous unions.

There are external issues. Shanker opposed his union's taking an antiwar (or pro- war) position on Vietnam or a position in the McGovern-Nixon race.

It would be underestimating and misunderstanding the caliber of the men involved to see this in sharp black and white terms. There are other philosophical differences. Many. What is pivotal is that the black labor coalition is marching openly.

Heavy equipment moves in to raise heighth of levee

CHARLESTON — Heavy earth- moving equipment from four construction companies moved into the Birds Point- New Madrid Floodway area in Missouri, just below Cairo, Ill., Friday afternoon and began work this morning to raise the heights of the upper fuse plug levee of the floodway.

The mobilization activities were ordered by Col. John D. Parish Jr., Memphis district engineer of the Army Corps of Engineers.

Crumpecker Construction Co. of Morehouse, Cinusha Construction Co. of St. Louis, Potashnick Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau and Stagner Construction Co. of Charleston responded to the request for equipment, and five other companies have equipment standing by.

According to Parish, restoration work on the levee will be done this summer and the addition to the levee would probably be left on a permanent basis.

All state counties had traffic deaths in 1972

JEFFERSON CITY — One or more traffic deaths were recorded in each of Missouri's 114 counties last year, according to the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

Jackson County experienced the most traffic fatalities in 1972 with 133 persons killed. Ninety-six of the deaths occurred in Kansas City. The second highest toll was reported in St. Louis County with 126. This does not include the city of St. Louis in which 95 persons were killed in vehicular accidents last year.

The Missouri State Highway patrol, in a study of last year's county traffic toll, found that 58 counties in the state had an increase in traffic deaths from 1971. Included in this group were St. Louis with an increase of 16, Pettis County had 15 more, Ste. Geneiveve 11 more and Boone, Greene, Mississippi and Pemiscot each recorded 10 more traffic fatalities in 1972 than in the previous year.

Forty-six Missouri counties had a decrease in the number of persons killed in traffic mishaps. Notable among these were Henry County with a decrease of 15, Lafayette County with 12 fewer fatalities and Clay and Franklin counties each had 11 fewer traffic deaths last year than in 1971.

Ten of the 114 counties in the state recorded the same traffic toll in 1971 and 1972.

Missouri recorded 1,474 traffic fatalities last year, 59 more than in 1971. Late deaths resulting from injuries sustained in traffic accidents in 1972 will be added to the toll.

Traffic deaths by county in 1971 and 1972; Cape Girardeau County, 16 in 1971, eight in 1972; Dunklin County, 16 in 1971, 21 in 1972; Mississippi County, seven in 1971, 17 in 1972; New Madrid County, 23 in 1971, 25 in 1972; Pemiscot County, 14 in 1971, 24 in 1972; Scott County, 14 in 1971, 23 in 1972; and Stoddard, 13 in 1971, nine in 1972.

TB unit to visit East Prairie Monday

EAST PRAIRIE — The tuberculosis mobile chest x-ray unit will be in East Prairie Monday from 12:30 p.m. until 6:30 p.m., and will be located at Checkerboard Square.

According to Mrs. Lindell Morris, president of the East Prairie Parent - Teachers Association, officers and members will staff the unit for the second consecutive year.

Persons 45 or older, smokers 30 or older and those who have a doctor's referral slip and are 21 or older should plan to visit the mobile unit for a free chest x-ray.

The unit will also be on the cotton gin lot in Dorena from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. Monday.

9 patients treated

Nine accident patients were treated Friday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Scouts to lease Wappapello land for canoe base

Approval was given by the executive board of the Southeast Missouri Boy Scout Council for the leasing of 60 acres of property with lakeside frontage on Lake Wappapello.

The property, located about four miles from U. S. 67 on County Route BB, will be leased for an extended period from the Corps of Engineers and used as a wilderness area and canoe base.

This action was taken at the regularly scheduled council meeting Thursday night in Sikeston at Two Tony's Restaurant. The meeting was presided over by Dr. Mark Scully, council president and president of Southeast Missouri State University and was attended by 38 men representing 14 counties.

The vote of approval to lease the additional land came after a special committee, headed by A. J. Drinkwater of Charleston made a report on their meeting with the Corps of Engineers in Memphis. In addition, T. A. Brown Jr., of Kennett discussed the location of the property and gave the committee's recommendation for leasing.

In other business the board heard a treasurer's report from Jim Lansmon of Cape Girardeau, assistant treasurer, on the financial status of the council.

The board received a report from Jim Spain of Bloomfield, council commissioner, on progress toward strengthening service to units by recruiting additional unit commissioners. He also announced dates for training unit commissioners.

Board members were informed by Paul Johnson of Poplar Bluff, member of the Council Camping Committee, that there would be a pre-camp inspection May 19 to insure that Camp Lewallen meets national standards regarding health and safety facilities. The inspection will be made by the council camping committee and the council health and safety committee. Johnson also announced a special program in canoeing is being planned for Camp Lewallen and Lake Wappapello, and that a Campmaster Corps has been established under the direction of Lt. Commander Jamed Dowdy, USN, of Cape Girardeau.

Purpose of the Campmaster corps is to assist troops and boys in having a more purposeful, enjoyably program in short-term camping. The camping committee feels that in establishing the Campmaster Corps, we will have more troops doing better camping, experiencing more advancement, and will have better troop organization. In short the year-round camping program takes on a new significance and meaning for all concerned.

Mel Vogel of Cape Girardeau, council organization and extension chairman, announced that the goal of the council is to have five new units in each of the Council's five districts by the end of June. He also said the National goal for all local councisl is to serve onythird of all boys off scouting age by 1976.

The board heard the recommendations of the council advancement committee from Walter Hedrick of Sikeston regarding the requirements for the service project required to attain the rank of Eagle. He also announced the retirement of Circuit Judge Marshall Craig of Sikeston, who served as council Eagle Board of Review chairman for five years.

Reports on the five districts were given by Bob Keathley of Bernie, Charles Brown of Kennett, Tom Gilmore of Sikeston, Paul Johnson of Poplar Bluff, and Weldon Huber of Perryville.

Two men were invested in new positions -- Bill Johnson of Malden as an executive board member and Carl Benbrook of Cape Girardeau as council public relations chairman.

The board was given a report by Jerry Beckner of Cape Girardeau, Council Scout Executive. Beckner introduced two field representatives from the national staff of Boy Scouts of America -- Chub Byrns of Kansas City, Kans., and Elmer Lucky of Princeton, N. Y. He also commended Dr. Scully for the series of dinner meetings held at his home for council and district operating committee chairmen.

Board members observed a moment of silence for Harry Blanton, who died recently after serving scouting for more than 40 years. Blanton was the holder of the Silver Beaver, the Council's highest honor.

Optimist contests Tuesday

The Optimist Club's boys and girls oratorical contest will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the banquet room at Ramada Inn.

To give the event more impact, Optimist International opened the event to girls for the first time this year since its inception as an all-boys contest from 10-15 years since 1928.

Sikeston Breakfast Club, now in its sixth year in the city, will lead the eight- club Southeast Missouri Zone 20 with 21 entries, 11 boys and 10 girls. Boys and girls are in separate contests, and thre trophies will be awarded each group.

Title of the five- minute oration will be "Listen World."

First place winner in the girls contest will compete with eight winners in the zone contest April 3 at 6:45 p.m. at Wayside Inn, near Interstate 55 between Cape Girardeau and Jackson.

Winner of the local boys group will compete against zone club winners at Top of the Hill (Sunny Hill) in Cape Girardeau on April 5 at 6:30 p.m.

A change in the International contest over past years will be the awarding of 40 or more $500 university scholarships compared to the former $2,000 for first place and several $1,000 scholarships nationwide.

The two zone winners will compete for the Missouri district award of $500 in Jefferson City April 28-29 while, for the first time in 45 years, there will be no contest at the international meet to be held this year in San Antonio, Tex., June 24-28.

The contest has been rescheduled for the Ramada, due to the increase of contestants and attendance.

Girls entered are Cheryl Johnson and Deborrah Griffin, both of Matthews High School; Janet Sauls of Sikeston High School; and Carol McClore, Charlotte Smith, Debra Caskey, Susan Scott, Kristy Southern, Tamra Boshears and Jeanene Johnson of Sikeston Junior High.

In the boys contest, David Moore and George McVay of Matthews, Loomis Mayfield, III, Billy Ray Mayfield, Peter Myers Jr. and Carl Leonard of Sikeston High School; Bill Klein, Tim Brown, Keven Hampton, Steve Streetman and Ronnie Seiler of Sikeston Junior High.

The Rev. James Holt and Leo L. Schade are co-chairmen of the contest.

4-H forum in progress at capitol

COLUMBIA — Mrs. Edward Russell of Kelso is Scott County's representative to the National 4-H Leader Forum which began today. She and the other 33 4-H leaders from throughout the state are accompanied by Arlon L. Horn, area youth agent of Butler County,

The delegates assembled in Columbia and left today for the National 4-H Center in Washington, D.C. The group will return April 1.

Each delegate is a recipient of a $90 scholarship sponsored by the Missouri 4-H Foundation to attend the forum. This is the 11th year Missouri has participated in the leader forum.

Highlighting the bus trip to Washington will be sightseeing stops at Gettysburg and Mr. Vernon. While in Washington, they will tour the city, covering such spots as the Congressional offices, U.S. Capitol, Supreme Court and Library of Congress, Smithsonian Institute, Arlington Cemetery and Washington Monument.

Thi year's forum will cover topics on understanding youth and helping them meet their needs. They will discuss effective use of junior leaders, parent involvement and teaching tools and techniques.

This year they also will cover working with low-income 4-H audiences. Resource speakers from the Washington area will address the leaders on the topics before the delegates break into smaller group workshops.

The forum is sponsored annually by the National 4-H Foundation, Inc., a private non-profit educational institution which was incorporated in 1948 by the Cooperation Extension Service of state land grant universities and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The foundation mission is to augment the youth work of extension.

Bell City sponsors benefit

BELL CITY — The Community Development Corporation is sponsoring a musical benefit show Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Bell City High School gymnasium. Proceeds will be used to further efforts of bringing industry to the Bell City area.

Groups and individuals featured in the evening's entertainment will include The Casuals, a pop- combo group; T. G. & Y., guitarists and vocalists; the Cornshuckers, a country-western group; Keith and Erika Voss, acrobat and accordianist; Hal Mar McDonald, pop pianist; and the High School Stage Band, playing pop music.

Gosepl music will be sung by The Inspirations, The Tate Singers, The Bootheel Community Choir and Watson & Barks.

Attendance prizes will be given during the program.

Science careers displayed

POPLAR BLUFF
Students interested in opportunities for careers in science are being invited to an open house and demonstration in the physics and chemistry laboratories March 31 at Three Rivers community college.

The laboratories will be open from 2 to 4 p.m. and instructors will be on hand to demonstrate equipment and answer questions.

Invitations have been sent by James E. Rawlings, chairman of the Science and Mathematics Division, to all high schools in the Three Rivers Junior College District (Butler, Carter, Ripley and Wayne counties) and to various high schools in Bollinger, Dunklin, New Madrid, Oregon, Pemiscot, Reynolds and Shannon counties.

Sydney Morris, instructor in physics, and Robert D. Hayes, instructor in chemistry, will be in the laboratories to greet visitors. Both laboratories are on the second floor of the Academic Building, 507 Vine St.

Several groups of students invited to a similar demonstration last fall expressed disappointment because they were unable to visit the college at that time. The open house and demonstrations this spring are in response to requests for another opportunity to attend a scientific display.

GIULINI TO VIENNA

VIENNA (AP) — Carlo Maria Giulini has been named chief conductor of the Vienna Symphony Orchestra.

He replaces Wolfgang Sawallisch, who left to be general music director of the State Opera in Munich.

The Italian musician, who was born in 1914 in Barletta, was on the staff of La Scala in Milan from 1953 to 1956. He has led the foremost orchestras of Europe and America as a guest conductor and since 1959 has been the principal guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony.

Ann Landers

Guy can visit girl's pad...not live there

Dear Ann Landers: Here's an admission of stupidity, defeat or whatever you want to call it. Please print it. I'll feel better if I get it off my chest.

Ron and I both lived off-campus. My pad was bigger than his so I let him move in with me. We decided it would be cheaper and more practical since he was sleeping over a lot anyway and we usually ate together. Neither of us felt we were ready for marriage. I always believed girls who insisted on a wedding ring were trying to tie a guy up for security. I didn't want Ron to stay with me for any reason except because he wanted to.

Well, here's where it's at after sixteen months of doing his laundry, typing his papers, cooking, cleaning and watching him smoke dope, contemplate his navel and study eight religions -- Eastern and Western. He does no work around here (too spaced out) and we argue constantly. Last night he hassled me about pestering him when he wanted to read, so I lost my cool and told him to get out. He said some pretty rotten things to me before he left.

Now I realize I made a big mistake. We had a truly beautiful relationship until he moved in. It spoiled everything. So please tell those other so-called liberated females that a chick's pad is a nice place for her guy to visit, but she shouldn't let him live there. P.S. Ron's main argument in favor of moving in with me was that living together before marriage prevents divorce. Any comment? --- Ree-Gretz

Dear Ree: There is no evidence that living together before marriage reduces the possibility of divorce. As a matter of fact I'm receiving letters like yours in increasing numbers, as time goes on. The girls usually feel they gave too much and received too little in return. Understandably, they are bitter and resentful. As for my personal opinion, do I favor such experiments? No. I do not.

Dear Ann Landers: We moved to his neighborhood because we heard it was friendly. Friendship always meant a lot to us. We lived here three months and not one living soul has come over to welcome us. My brother thought this was pretty crummy and decided he wanted nothing to do with our neighbors.

Two weeks ago my mother died. My brother decided to let bygones be bygones. He went to the people next door and asked if they would like to take up a collection from the other neighbors for flowers. They said they had never done such a thing before and shut the door. We never heard from them after that.

We love this house and don't want to move. How does one cope with neighbors who are so cold and unfriendly? --- Hurt Feelings.

Dear Hurt: Customs vary, according to area, and perhaps the customs you took for granted in your previous neighborhood are unheard of here. Your neighbors have made it abundantly clear that they don't wish to be friendly -- so greet them casually when you meet and don't look to them for friendship.

Dear Ann Landers: Before I married I had a fine position. The company president ran into my husband yesterday and told him he'd love for me to come back at a nice increase in salary.

Our baby is less than a year old. My husband says his widowed mother can move in and take over. We could surely use the money, but his mother and I never got along and I don't want to go back to work. Help me decide. -- X.O.

Dear X.O.: No amount of money is worth a wrecked marriage. Say NO.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

If my son were being recruited I would....

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Much has been written about college recruiting. But here's a different perspective -- that of a collegiate basketball coach who lists four key guidlines he would want to see adhered to if his two teenage sons were being recruited.

John Edwards is head basketball coach at Southwest Baptist College in Bolivar, Mo. A member of the Fellowship of Christain Athletes, Edwards addressed these comments to his colleagues at an FCA breakfast for NAIA basketball coaches. The article appears in the March issue of the Christian Athlete magazine.

Recruiting is the name of the game -- whether it's a private liberal arts college, a major university, or a junior college.

Whether we like it or not, college coaches are caught up in a rather unique situation. Only a small percentage of all the time and money spent in recruiting actually benefits his program and his school. The success ratio in recruiting might be higher in a large university but, anyway you look at it, the tremendous expenditure of money and manhours is highly inefficient.

Colleges and universities are subjected to much criticism in regard to recruiting. I contend, however, that various individuals -- coaches, parents and athletes themselves -- share much of the blame for the present system of recruiting. I feel these individuals have a responsibility to themselves as well as to institutions doing the recruiting, and should look very carefully at four factors. My viewpoint in examining these guidelines is not necessarily that of a coach -- but as the father of two teenage sons.

First, if my sons were being recruited I would not want them to be bought. There is no point in debating that illegal enticing goes on in college athletics. The type of buying I'm talking about exists in many forms other than the actual exchange of money.

This kind of competition for an athlete may rob both the school and athlete of a very valuable aspect of character. Loyalty. It's also the basis of other problems arising from a false sense of values which often develops. I want my sons to have pride in the institution they attend, to know that athletics is only part of an educational experience, and to realize that any amount of compensation is small compared to the value of education itself.

Secondly, I would like my sons to attend a school where they would be recognized as individuals. There's no doubt that individual identity is lost in many institutions. Many college coaches use the bodies of young men without recognizing them as persons.

I had an incident occur while I was at Samford University in Birmingham, Ala., which involved a young man who had transferred from a large university in the South. "Coach," he told me, "during the five months I was there the coach never said one word to me other than to correct me in practice."

If we really believe there's a place for individual worth in college athletics, we can't allow this type of thing to continue. I certainly don't want it to happen to my sons.

A third important consideration is that I'd like for my sons to attend a school where they can develope a sense of responsibility and become a mature person. Someone says, "All schools offer this opportunity."

Do they? The players at many institutions are led to believe they are different and consequently they live under a different set of rules than other students. I think we coaches have a responsiblity to review the aspects of our school's curriculum and help our young men to develop some sense of responsiblity other than just skills in their sports.

To rob athletes of this right is, in a sense, cheating them because it doesn't allow them to develop a trait which is absolutely essential for modern living: the right to be a responsible person.

Finally, I would definitely want to see a Fellowship of Christian Athletes group at the institution my sons would select. FCA provides a way to really put what you believe into practice. We've seen it work at our school where some of our players are active in a big brother type program.

Take a big guy like Mike Carr, our 7-1 sophomore center. At times he brings an underprivileged youngster to a game. Or Mike takes him to the dining hall to eat supper with him or takes him to a movie. Although he's improved, Mike averaged just 3 points and 3 rebounds per game last season. But he went beyond himself and probably learned an important lesson in life.

FCA was the vehicle and supplied the opportunity. So I'd like my sons to go to a school where FCA is a part of the athletic program, where a person can go beyond himself and learn to care for and get involved with others.

These four factors don't guarantee my sons will turn out any better. But they are opportunities and considerations that many schools don't offer or attempt to provide.

If your son(s) were being recruited what would you want for them?

No-hit exhibition

"I'd rather have this happen on April 23 when it counts," said Kansas City rookie Steve Busby.

"I was thinking about the law of averages. Sometimes you follow a guy who's throwing a nohitter and everything breaks loose," added another rookie, Doug Bird.

Their comments followed their combined no-hitter Friday, a 4-1 exhibition baseball victory over the Detroit Tigers.

It was the first time the Tigers had been held hitless since Joe Horlen of the Chicago White Sox did it in September of 1967.

Bird yielded the lone Detroit run in the seventh as Norm Cash walked and pinch runner Joe Staton came around on a stolen base, passed ball and infield grounder.

The three Cruz brothers—Jose, Hector and Cirilo—started in the outfield and led St. Louis over the New York Mets 9-2. The trio got five of the Cardinals' 12 hits, Cirilo slamming a triple in the five-run seventh that locked up the victory for Bob Gibson.

In other games, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2, the Atlanta Braves topped the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4, the Houston Astros slipped past the Minnesota Twins 4-3, the Cleveland Indians tripped the Chicago Cubs 2-1, the Boston Red Sox downed the Chicago White Sox 7-6 in 10 innings, the Oakland A's beat the Milwaukee Brewers 4-3, the San Francisco Giants belted the California Anges 6-1, the Montreal Expos tamed the Baltimore Orioles 2-1, the Cubs downed the Brewers 4-1 in a 'B' squad contest and the New York Yankees nipped the Texas Rangers 3-2 in 16 innings.

White Sox outfielder Carlos May suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg as Chicago defeated Boston 7-6 in 10 innings. He is expected to be sidelined 2-3 weeks.

Joe Pepitone drove in three runs with a pair of homers in the Cubs' 'B' victory over the Brewers. Ferguson Jenkins worked seven innings for the Cubs, yielding five singles and one run.

Willie McCovey blasted a two-run homer off Nolan Ryan in the fourth inning and Juan Marichal pitched six innings of two-hit ball as the Giants defeated the Angels.

Charlie Spikes' sixth home run of the exhibition season, a two-run shot in the seventh inning, gave the Indians their victory over the Cubs in a rainshortened game.

Fred Stanley's single and Johnny Callison's double in the bottom of the 16th inning gave the New York Yankees a 3-2 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Paul Casanova knocked in the Braves' winning run with a single in the seventh inning against the Phillies. The Reds scored three runs in the fourth and got five-hit pitching from Jim McGlothlin and Ed Sprague to defeat the Dodgers.

A sacrifice fly by Lee May and Jim Wynn's single produced two runs in the ninth inning to boost the Astros past the Twins.

Mizzou fights

COLUMBIA, Mo. — It's ironic that both of Missouri's greatest basketball scorers of all-time were evicted from the final game of their senior season for an on-the-court fracas.

Back in 1961, Mizzou's Charlie Henke and Wayne Hightower of Kansas were the combatants in an isolated incident under the south goal in old Brewer field house. Their exchange of punches touched off a pretty good brawl involving other players from both benches and some spectators who spilled out on the court.

The game was nationally telecast, with Jack Buck doing the play-by-play -- and the blow-by-blow.

Saturday afternoon March 10th, Don Jackson of Nebraska and Tiger John Brown swapped punches early in the second half. This fight lasted for just about five seconds, and was squelched without any further involvement.

Henke, a 6-7 center, held the Missouri career record of 1338 points until Brown overtook him in the first half of the Oklahoma State game on March 3.

The Henke-Hightower donnybrook of a dozen years ago had one humorous sidelight.

When the melee broke out, big Harry Smith -- then a Tiger assistant football coach -- rushed to where the Mizzour pep band was grouped and directed them to play some music -- in hopes of pacifying the angry, swirling crowd.

The band responded promptly.

They played the Tiger Fight Song!

Canoe race interest high

BONNE TERRE, Mo. — With the fourth annual National Endurance Canoe Race a little over two months away, entries and requests for entry forms have been coming in at a much higher rate than last year. Based on the number of requests for entry forms, it is estimated that there will be over 100 entries this year.

There are to be three distinct classes this year: a money class, made up of 15 winners for cash and trophies and a novice class made up of non-professional racers desiging to race for trophies. The other class will fall in the amateur classification. Trophies will be awarded in all three classes, 48 trophies in all will be given away.

This year, the Endurance Canoe Race will start at St. Francois State Park, just 2½ miles northeast of Bonne Terre, and continue downstream 21½ miles to Washington State Park on Highway 21, Washington County, Mo. Spectators will be able to view the race from St. Francois State Park, Old North Highway 67, Bridge at Big River, Highway E Bridge areas, Blackwell area, and the Vineland area. Spectator points will be marked.

The Ozark C.B. (Citizens Band) Club and REACT (Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Team) will maintain 7 stations along the 21½ mile course, maintaining radio contact and precise location of all canoeists along the river. The REACT team will have emergency first aid at all stations, as well as emergency floating units.

All persons desiring to enter the race are urged to mail entry forms immediately. All non-professional canoeists should plan to depart from the Starting Point between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m., Sunday May 20, 1973.

Entry forms may be obtained by writing:

Stall expected

ST. LOUIS (AP) — This Midwest city was shrouded today in a war of nerves and basketball hysteria as Providence faced Memphis State and Indiana fought top-ranked UCLA in the semfinals prelude to Monday night's national collegiate championship showdown.

The battle of nerves centered around the coaches and players of the three teams which are underdogs and possessing dreams of dethroning UCLA, winner of six consecutive national titles and a heavy favorite to annex number seven.

With Big Ten champion Indiana, of course, UCLA was the immediate problem since the hotshot Hoosiers had a 4:10 p. m., EST, date with the proud Bruins, unbeaten in 73 straight games over three seasons.

Bob Knight, the Hoosier coach, said he planned to "do the same things we have done in 26 games this season. I'm not smart enough to devise something tricky to play anybody."

Knight said he had had suggestions from people "from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Bangor, Maine on how to play UCLA" but that he "hasn't used any of them. I've been accused of a lot of things but not running the operation myself isn't one of them."

Knight denied sixth-ranked Indiana would employ the freeze against the Bruins but Coach John Wooden of UCLA predicted the Hoosiers would stall.

Wooden suid he "wouldn't change our game to play anybody. We're not awed by being in the semfinals. Experience is a big thing. I have always said I'd rather have talent than experience."

Told that everybody was conceding the championship to UCLA, Wooden smiled and said:

"That's a nice position. I wish the right people would concede it. The ones who are conceding us the championship are the ones who aren't playing."

Several of the UCLA players, including star forward Keith Wilkes spent this morning taking final examinations under the supervision of a faculty member who accompanied the team.

Providence, fourth-ranked and an at-large selection, and Memphis State, Missouri Valley king, were to collide at 2:10 p.m., EST, but both were unconsciously letting their thoughts dwell into the future— Monday night's finals.

"You dream about a game like with UCLA," said Memphis State Coach Gene Bartow.

Softball for girls

Plans are underway to form a girls softball league through the Ministerial Alliance for a community betterment program that will give recreational opportunity for girl athletes.

All girls that are interested in participating must turn their names into their church no later than March 28. There will be two leagues, one for six through nine year olds and one for young adults.

25-cagers honored

The Daily Standard officially brings down the curtain on the 1972-73 Southeast Missouri high school basketball season today with the announcement of the seventh annual 15- member all- star and all- academic teams as selected by the papers 15- member panel of coaches.

Bootheel coaches nominated the players for the teams and the panel of coaches narrowed the field to the top 15 and named the number one team of the season along with the coach of the year.

Poplar Bluff's Bob Gray and Scott Thomas of Chaffee were unanimous choices for both teams and were two of six players selected by the panel of coaches for both teams. Joining the duo were Cape Girardeau Central's Dick Buxton, Joe Cagle of Caruthersville and Advance's Darrell Croy and Terry Wills.

Only one underclassman was named to the all- star squad, that being Jeff "Jethro" Jackson of Kelly. Five underclassmen were named to the all- academic squad, juniors Bill Seabaugh of Cape Girardeau Central, Roy Bowman of Sikeston, Carl McFarland of Clarkton and Armand Porter of Matthews joined with Sophomore Andy Smelser of Risco on the academic roster.

Buxton and Thomas were repeaters from last season on both teams. Croy repeated on the Academic roster.

Daily Standard 7th Annual Awards

THUMB NAIL SKETCHES OF ALL—STAR TEAM

SCOTT THOMAS --- Scott is the tallest all-star on the squad at 6-7. He is a repeater from last years team as well as the all-academic team. He averaged 23 points a game and 18 rebounds per game. Scott was an outstanding football player and has been an above average basketball player from his sophomore year. He also is a professional baseball prospect as the big senior possesses a live fast ball. He has signed a letter of intent to attend Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau on a basketball and baseball scholarship.

BOB GRAY --- This 6-4 senior had an outstanding year for the Mules with a scoring average of 16 per game and a rebounding average of 11. Bob was also selected to the all-academic squad. He was the team leader for coach Tom Hoover's Mules.

POPE HUNT --- He joined the Bulldogs for the second half of the season after coach McDaniel's forces had lost 10 straight and rebounded the Bulldogs to a 7-3 record. He was the team leader averaging 22 points a game with a 51 per cent shooting average from the field and hauled in 15 rebounds a game. At 6-4 he was one of the oustanding jumpers in the entire state. He was also named to the all-district team for his fine efforts on the hardwoods.

FRED ROWE --- This 6-3 all star was the district's leading scorer with a 28.7 average and was an outstanding defensive star as well pulling down an average of 22.3 rebounds a game. He had an outstanding shooting percentage of 48.6 per cent from the field and scored 49 points in a single game for a new Scott Central high school record, breaking his own record of 45 set earlier in the year.

JOE CAGLE --- This 5-11 guard finished a fine career at Caruthersville not only in basketball but was an outstanding quarterback on the football team as well. Joe led the Tigers in scoring with a 17.2 average and averaged 11 rebounds a game from his guard position. He started as a freshman in the regional tournament and scored 16 points and has been a starter for coach Hugh James' team ever since. He was offered a football scholarship at the University of Missouri. Joe was named to the all-district, all-academic, all- conference, and finally to the all-state team in class M.

DICK BUXTON --- This 6-5 giant is a repeater from last years Daily Standard All-Star, and all-academic team. He upped his scoring average this season from 13.8 to 22 points a game and from 8.7 rebounds to 14 per contest. He was named to the all-district, all-conference, last year as well as this season and climbed from honorable all-state in class L last year to the first team all-state this year.

DARRELL CROY --- Darrell completed his high school at Advance this season at the time as he was picked unanimously to the class S all-state team. He had a scoring average of 18.2 per game. He has been named to all the all-star teams in the areas as well as the state. Darrell also excels in the classroom being named to the all-academic team for the second consecutive year. He will attend the university of Missouri on an academic scholarship as well as basketball. He was a starting guard on last years state championship team and the runnerup team this season.

ALVIN PIERCE --- this 6-2 forward has been an outstanding shooter from his sophomore season. Was predicted to be a standout by area coaches from the beginning. He was selected for the second straight year. Alvin averaged 22.9 points a game and had a rebounding average of 17 per contest.

HERMAN BROWN --- Herman is a repeater from last years all-star squad and at 6-4 is one of the best jumpers in the area. He has an average of 16.9 points a game and 17 rebounds. He ends his high school career after leading the Lions into first round of class M state play in his junior year.

JEFF JACKSON --- Jeff is becoming one of the outstanding players in the district his junior year and helped lead the Kelly Hawks into the quarter- final round of state class M play for the first time in the 15 year of the high school. He averaged 16.8 points a game and had a game high of 37 points. He was the leading rebounder on the team with an average of 16 per game. He is also one of the area's top high school pitchers and led the Hawks to state tournament play last year as a sophomore.

JAMES HOLT --- He is one of the district's top outside shooters, averaging 22 points a game in his senior year. He is 6-1 and hauls in 11 rebounds a game. Scored 38 points for a single game high.

JOHN RHODES --- Ended his high school career on a high note by being named to the all-state class S team. He had an outstanding performance in state tournament play after illness had hampered most of the team. He took charge and led the Hornets to second place. John was a top defensive player which is overlooked many times due the offensive ability of other players. He averaged 15.4 points a game and had an average of seven rebounds a game. He plans to attend Missouri Baptist College in St. Louis upon graduation and become a minister. Named to all-district, all-conference teams.

NORMAN PAYNE --- He had an outstanding career at Viburnum, leading his team in scoring with an average of 18.2. Norman led the Jays to the semi-finals in South Iron regional past year.

DALE CREWS --- At 6-4 averaged 18 points a game after the first half of season. He joined the Pirates for second half and led Parma to the conference tournament championship and was the key factor in leading the team to the Bloomfield class S regional championship. He led the team in rebounds with 13 per game. Picked to all-district team.

TERRY WILLS --- Was the third Advance Hornet to receive the all-star honor. Terry was named to all the all-star teams except all-state where received honorable mention. He came down with thefiu in the state playoffs and weakened his performance after being the Hornets leader through the entire year. He averaged 17.5 points per game and averaged 12 rebounds a game. He had his best scoring games in the regional tournament at South Iron, hitting over thirty on two occasions. He has been a steady performer from his sophomore year.

THUMBNAIL SKETCHES OF ALL-ACADEMIC STARS

JOE CAGLE -- He has been named to all the area's all-star team with the top honor being selected to all-state class M squad. Young farmers host meeting at research center

PORTAGEVILLE — The New Madrid County Young Farmers Association was host for an all- day Southeast District meeting March 17 at the University of Missouri Delta Research Center.

The meeting focused on informing young farmers of activities of the young farmers organization and establishing more chapters in the district and enlisting new members.

The Missouri Young Farmers Association was formed four years ago. There are 62 chapters in the state with five chapters in the southeast district which comprises about 14 counties.

Trent Walker of Helena, Ark., gave a talk on the advancements in farm chemicals and discussed new chemicals being introduced.

E. B. Nace, University of Missouri farm economist, spoke on the farm economic outlook and presneted comparison data on prices, markets and farming operations.

Larry Riley of Bernie was master of ceremonies and Tommy Essary of Matthews was moderator for a panel discussion. Panel members included MYF members Danny Summerlott and Larry Britt of East Prairie, Bill Whitener of Fredericktown, Sam Faulkner of New Madrid and Jim Lawrence, advisor for Campbell MYF.

The discussion centered on procedures in forming MYF Chapters, rules and regulations and different types of programs for meetings.

Special guests included Robert Hayward, executive secretary of MYF and Mrs. Hayward of Jefferson City; J. D. Harris, of Poplar Bluff, district advisor; Mrs. Sharon Hunt of Benton, area home economist in child and family relations; personnel of the Delta Center; and businessmen who donated refreshments, lunch and door prizes for the meeting.

About 62 persons, including wives of young farmers, attended.

Outstanding corn yield winner

Dekalb District Manager Paul Ehlert right of Jackson, Mo., presented a plague to five area corn producers for their outstanding corn yields. R. H. Robinson, Dekalb dealer of Dexter, accepted the awards for the four who were unable to attend. The honored corn growers are: Wally Clippard, Dexter, for 178.42 bushels per acre of XL-81; Clarence Ott, Ladell Norman, and Tom Meritt all of Essex, for 145.9 bushels per acre of XL-81; and Mr. Robinson. Robinson received special recognition for his entry in the National Corn Growers Contest. He had the highest irrigated entry in the state with a yield of 201.2 bushels per acre with Dekalb XL-72A.

Five corn growers honored

Five acre corn producers were recently honored at a meeting of the Dekalb 200 Club of Columbia, Missouri. They are Wally Clippard, Dexter; for 178.42 bushels per acre; Clarence Ott, Ladell Norman, and Tom Meritt of Essex, 145.9 bushels per acre; and R. H. Robinson, Dexter with 201.2 bushels per acre.

All of the growers but Robinson used XL-81 variety, while Robinson used Dekalb XL-72A to gain the highest irrigated entry in the state. Robinson is also a member of a newly selected panel to discuss new corn growing practices. Robinson's yield was an increase of 27 bushels per acre over his 1972 output.

The purpose of the Dekalb 200 Club is to promote better corn production through an exchange of ideas among the nations leading corn growers.

Oxygen levels may cause fish to suffocate

By JERRY T. HARLOW
District Conservationist

BENTON — Spring and early summer is an important time of the year to keep a watch on your ponds stocked with fish.

Under certain conditions the oxygen supply in the water may be very low and cause fish losses due to suffocation. If the fish in your pond come to the top of the water and seem to be sucking at the surface, it is likely that the water is low in oxygen.. If nothing is done to increase the oxygen supply, many of the fish will begin to die.

One of the best ways to increase the oxygen supply in the water is to pump the water out of the pond, spray it into the air and let it fall back into the pond. If the oxygen supply is low the fish will begin to gather around where the spray is returning to the pond surface.

If your pump has a heavy stream instead of a spray you can allow it to spaletter off of a solid surface such as a board. The spray will then gather oxygen from the air before returning to the pond. When there is again enough oxygen in the water the fish will return to the deeper water areas and will no longer be visible on the surface.

Support for meat boycott growing

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer

Support for a week-long meat boycott starting the first of April appears to be growing daily just a month after two Los Angeles housewives concerned about high prices suggested the resistance.

Anger over high prices or simple financial necessity apparently is prompting many housewives to sharply reduce their meat buying. And contrary to President Nixon's opinion that a boycott would not be "an effective use of what we call 'people power,'" a buying cutback appears to be under way.

The American Meat Institute reports from Chicago that there was a drop in wholesale meat prices during the past week. Noting this, Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Adviers, told Washington newsmen Thursday:

"Something seems to be working back from the demand side. Consumer resistance may be having an effect."

The National Association of Food Chains said that in a recent telephone survey of 16 food chains, 15 reported they were ordering less beef than before. The Western States Meat Packers Association says West Coast meat wholesalers have cut their prices 2 to 3 cents a pound in response to pressure from consumers and the government.

Organizers of the boycott promise they'll have an even greater effect in April. Women are showing up at supermarkets across the nation to hand out boycott leaflets and circulate recipes for meatless meals.

In many stores shoppers already are boycotting the meat department on certain days of the week. If the one-week April boycott doesn't bring lower prices, supporters vow to extend it one, two or even three weeks.

"I think it's the phenomenon of the decade," says June Donavan of the boycott which she and her friend, Arline Mathews, conceived in a telephone conversation in late February. The two women estimate they've received more than 20,000 letters and hundreds of phone calls expressing support and seeking more information about forming Fight Inflation Together FIT clubs.

An Associated Press survey showed similar sentiments elsewhere.

—"I think it's a chance for consumers to grab on to something and fight back," says Eva Sartwell of Concord, N.H.

"We, the consumers, are the ones keeping the costs of meat high because meat is not in short supply."

—"If we don't buy the meat, the gorcery stores can't sell the meat," says Drema Thomas of Grove City, Ohio. "They will just have to order less until they bring the prices down or Nixon puts on a freeze."

—"This type of boycott where it is announced ahead of time and the butcher can adjust his order, this can only have a good effect," says Nell Weekley, director of the Mayor's Office of Consumer Affairs in New Orleans.

Boycott endorsements have come from Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire, delegates to a United Auto Workers Union convention in New York, the Consumer Federation of California, National Consumers United of Chicago, the Consumer Assembly of Greater New York and many other organizations.

Fowler appointed to PCA board of directors

Appointment of Ray Fowler of New Madrid Route One to the board of directors of Sikeston Production Credit Association has been announced by Robert A. Wright, president of the association.

Fowler fills a board vacancy caused by the death of Paul Bradley earlier this year.

Fowler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Fowler of New Madrid Route One and attended school at Kewanee. He farmed with his parents until completing his education at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau. He majored in agriculture and science and later taught science at New Madrid Elementary School.

Fowler worked as ingredient buyer for Ralston Purina for four years at Marston and one year at Montgomery City.

He started his farming career in 1961 and today farms 200 acres of cotton, 150 acres of wheat and 350 acres of soybeans. Fowler owns 76 acres and rents the balance of the land.

His father's farming operation is located nearby, and they have a "buddy system" arrangement on large equipment such as combines, cotton picker, etc., so both farming operations can benefit from the equipment.

Fowler and his wife, the former Carolyn Prince of Marston, now live in their new remodeled home one mile east of LaForge. They have two children, Tommy, 10, and Elizabeth, 7.

A Production Credit Association member since August 1962, he is serving his second term on the Sikeston field office advisory committee.

—Ray Fowler -

Other members of the Sikeston PCA board are Charles Causey of Bloomfield, chairman; E. E. Dement of Sikeston, vice chairman; Jimmy Bishop of East Prairie; and Louis Kalkbrenner of Poplar Bluff.

Findley wants to lower crop subsidies to $20,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Paul Findley, who led the fight to limit the amount farmers can collect in federal crop subsidy payments, says he hopes to get it lowered to $20,000 in the upcoming farm bill.

"The $55,000 limit now in effect is a ridiculously high figure and is not an effective limit. But it was a start," he said in an interview.

The $55,000 limitation on subsidies for cotton, wheat and feed grains was agreed upon in 1970 as a compromise, with the Illinois Republican arguing then that the figure should be lower.

"A government - guaranteed income of $20,000 a year compares very favorably to other levels of guaranteed income," he said.

It was largely through Findley's efforts that any limitation was enacted in 1970. He had been battling to restrict individual payments since 1967, claiming that the bulk of the payments were going to huge agribusiness corporations instead of to individual farmers.

But big operators, by nominally splitting up farms between members of their families, were able to collect several payments of $55,000 each and in some cases, received more money under the limitation than under the old plan.

Findley, who inserts in the Congressional Record each year a list of farmers who receive large subsidy payments, noted that whereas in 1968 there were 5,914 farmers who received a total of $273 million, in 1971 there were $13,751 who received $486 million.

Findley would like to see a five- year phaseout of income supplement payments to farmers and a phasing in of general land retirement.

Findley is not optimistic about phasing out income supplement payments. But he said "Congress is becoming more urband - oriented." He said of his colleagues on the House Agriculture Committee:

"This is the wrong year for them to go to the floor crying for more money for the farmer. With food prices the way they are, they are going to have to cater to the interests of city congressmen.

"I look forward to the day when government will no longer be involved in farming," Findley added.

Vanishing Indians

The Haida Indians were the vikings of North America's west coast, trading and raiding in 50-foot-long canoes. Settlers brought European diseases that decimated the tribe, and today only 1,500 live on the Queen Charlotte islands off British Columbia.

Food prices soar, but farmers may get less income

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Although food prices are soaring, American farmers may wind up with less net income this year than in 1972, the Federal Reservea Bank of San Francisco says.

The average farmer actually will have higher gross receipts in 1973 because of expanded production and favorable prices, the reserve bank said in a report released Thursday.

However, "much of this gain to farmers may be offset by a decline in government payments," the report added. "In addition, the expected rise in gross farm income may be wiped out completely by the continued rise in production expenses."

Net farm income thus could decrease 5 per cent from last year's all-time high of $19 billion to a total of $18 billion despite increasing food prices, the study said.

Seasonally adjusted food prices were up 2.2 per cent in February, the biggest increase since February, 1951, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Wednesday.

Farmers can look for cash receipts to increase from the 1972 record of $58.5 billion to a new peak of $62 billion, said the study of agricultural statistics by reserve bank economist Dean Chan. However, production costs are expected to increase from $47 .billion to perhaps $51 billion.

"Furthermore, these price pressures should intensify this year in view of the rapidly growing need for machinery and materials, not to mention land and labor," the report continued.

"The 1973 farm picture is clouded by the fact that policy makers must deal with two conflicting goals-curbing food price inflation on the one hand and maintaining farm prosperity on the other."

Noting that "the administration views the upsurge in farm prices as the result of rapid expansion of demand relative to supply, rather than being due to cost-push factors," the reserve bank offered this prediction:

"Certain policy moves are inevitable: the relaxation of production restraints on 1973 crops, the sales of grain from government stocks and the lifting of import quotas on meat and dairy products."

Farm land can turn recreation profit

By MELVIN HAMM
Soil Conservation Technician

A new use for farm land is outdoor fun for city people who don't have room to play, hike, swim, or camp on their own grounds. The demand for open space for outdoor recreation is increasing each year. Urban residents are willing to pay for the privileges of enjoying outdoor activities on private owned land.

If you operate a farm chances are you can provide some form of outdoor recreation to paying guests. In fact almost any piece of rural land can be converted to some form of recreation use, such as golf courses, playing fields, ponds, woodlands or groves of trees for picnic areas and campgrounds.

If within reach of a paying market sale of recreation privileges may prove more profitable than producing crops, grazing livestock or cutting timber.

Many farmers and other rural residents in all parts of the county have already discovered that people from cities and towns will pay well for good recreation services and facilities.

Before investing heavily in a recreation enterprise for profit, you will want to judge your situation carefully, your market, you land and water resources and your own ability.

For assistance in developing recreation areas contact The Soil Conservation Service, Benton, Missouri.

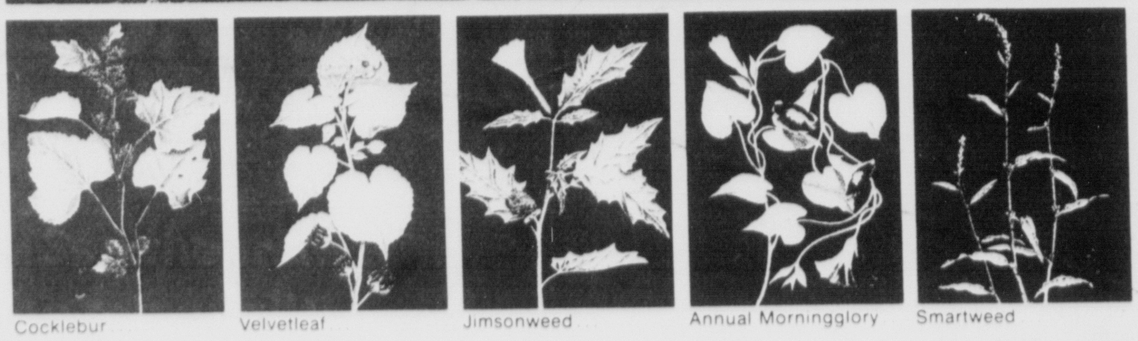
Stop broadleaf break through:



When you see some of these "uglies" coming through your weed control, you know you're in trouble, because most herbicides just can't handle them all. That's why so many Midwest bean producers are switching over to the Uniroyal "On Target" weed control program. It's a "good sense" approach to broadleaf pressure that can be adapted to almost any soil type and cultural practice.
UNIROYAL
As with any herbicide always follow instructions on the label.
The Dyanap® Piggyback Plan
If you're currently using an incorporated grass control herbicide, but need additional broadleaf protection, Uniroyal recommends the Dyanap Piggyback Plan. Applied just prior to bean emergence, Dyanap will contact kill most broadleaf weeds that are emerging or have emerged, plus provide residual control of later germinating types. Your incorporated chemical takes on the grasses. Dyanap gets the broadleafs. Stops easy-to-control types like pigweed, ragweed, purslane, lambsquarters, and wild mustard, plus the big, tough ones like cocklebur, velvetleaf, and annual morningglory. A dependable, low-cost answer to broadleaf pressure.

Farm families of the year

County farm families of the year were recognized at the annual Farmers Home Administration Farm Family of the Year banquet Friday evening at the Ramada Inn. They are from left, Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Carver of Bragg City, Pemiscot County; Kennett Webb of Sikeston, Scott County; Mr. and Mrs. Amos Linville of Campbell, Dunklin County, district winners; Mr. and Mrs. Charley Robinett of Bloomfield, Stoddard County; and Mr. and Mrs. Garland C. Boswell of Harviell, Butler County. New Madrid County winners were Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Coleman of Gideon who were not present.

Senators join to save program

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., has joined 14 other U.S. Senators in sponsoring legislation to save the Missouri Regional Medical Program based in Columbia.

Eagleton said the federal government had directed the regional program be phased out by June 30 of this year. The legislation would continue it through this period.

The Missouri senator said he and the other senators banded together to save the Missouri program and 55 other state programs.

The Missouri Regional Medical Program was allocated $1.7 million by the federal government last year.

Bond explains bathroom needs

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond sent a five-page letter to a state legislator Thursday explaining why new bathroom construction in the governor's mansion is costing $19,000.

"Major costs were incurred because of deficiencies in the wiring, plumbing and structure itself," Bond told Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, who inquired.

The "bathroom area problem" as Bond called it, is on the second floor of the mansion, where the governor and his wife will have living quarters. More than $65,000 is being spent on renovations, the money coming out of funds approved last year for capitol complex renovations.

"I am sure you will understand that the project in question is part of a continuing program to preserve this facility," Bond wrote, describing the mansion as "a landmark most prominent in Missouri history."

He said some electric wires were bare and others were overloaded. "Much of the wiring under the floor was wet from leaking drain lines," the governor said, and "a serious health hazard" resulted from toilet vents that terminated in the attic.

Earlier, Rep. James "Jay" Russell, D-Florissant, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, criticized Bond for spending $26,000 for the bathroom and a new kitchen. He said most Missourians do not have that much money invested in their homes.

The average American now eats more than seven pounds of pickles a year.

Cotton quality amendment proposed

CHICAGO — An amendment of the base quality used in spot cotton quotations work has been proposed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

If adopted, the amendment would change base quality from middling 1- inch to strict low middling 1 - 1/16 inches. The amendment would be effective Aug. 1, 1973, the beginning of the 1973 cotton marketing year.

Agricultural Marketing Service officials said that the change was proposed to establish a more accurate base price and to provide more meaningful premiums and discounts for cotton. To do this the base quality should be one for which price information is readily available. Production of Middling 1-inch cotton has amounted to less than one per cent of annual U.S. production since 1961. However, in seven of the last 10 years the predominant cotton quality has been strict low middling 1 -1/16 inches.

In quoting spot cotton prices the base quality price is determined first and stated in cents per pound. Differences are then determined for other qualities and are stated in points per pound (100 points equal one cent) as premiums or discounts above or below the base price.

The last change in base quality was made in 1956. The proposed revision is scheduled to appear in the Federal Register on March 21. Deadline for comments is April 6. Comments may be submitted in duplicate to the Hearing Clerk, Room 112-A, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

Idle state funds earn big interest

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Idle state funds have earned $4.8 million in interest in the 1972-73 fiscal year, says State Treasurer James I. Spainhower.

The total at this time last year was $3.5 million.

Spainhower, in a news conference Thursday, said there are more funds to invest and the interest rate is higher.

Spainhower also announced a six-member committee to review the operations of the treasurer's office and advise him on sate deposit of funds.

The members are:

Richard J. Mersinger, vice president of Mercantile Trust Co., St. Louis; Sam Fanara, vice president of First National Bank in St. Louis; Gerald R. Strong, an accountant with Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co., Kansas City; Carl Giswold, vice president of Commerce Banshares Inc., Kansas City; Donald L. Campbell, president of the Exchange National Bank in Jefferson City; and Robert M. Robuck, vice president of the Central Trust Bank in Jefferson City.

The case of the resistant girdle

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Peggy found that while most things in life generally adjust themselves, her girdle was the stubborn exception. Consequently, she went to Flo- Flo's Fru- Fru Shop to buy a new one. Her confrontation with a girdle there, however, proved as harrowing and hazardous an experience as she had ever had.

In trying on a Gandhi girdle (passive resistance), Peggy tugged from the front while Flo- Flo struggled to bring up the rear. It was a real battle and Flo- Flor finally stopped to rest. While she did, Peggy continued the struggle on her own until she lost her balance. Falling on her well padded derriere, Peggy sued Flo- Flo for her injuries.

"After helping me to get all tangled up in that dang girdle," she complained in court, "Flo- Flo copped out on me. Leaving me to struggle with the girdle all alone was pure carelessness."

"That's not so," retorted Flo- Flo. "I did all I could to assist her. But with her figure, she didn't need me to help her get into that girdle. What she needed was a crowbar."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold Flo- Flo liable for Peggy's losing battle with the resistant girdle?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that Peggy's injuries were primarily due to the unusual hazards of trying to put on a girdle. In trying to help Peggy overcome those hazards, concluded the judge, Flo- Flo had exercised an appropriate amount of care.

What to get if cyst nematodes got more soybeans than you did last year. If your soybean yields weren't what you expected last year . . . if the young plants were wilted, stunted and yellowed . . . then chances are you have soybean cyst nematodes. And this year you need FUMAZONE* brand soil fumigant. Apply this low-cost nematicide once—preplant or at planting—then plant your favorite soybean variety. And that's all it takes to hit soybean cyst nematodes right where they live—effectively and economically. Your farm chemicals dealer has FUMAZONE and all the information you need to control soybean cyst nematodes. Just remember to consult and observe all the precautions on the product label. Grow Big with Dow.

said. He added that another cause for increased food prices is that supermarkets are now catering to the "lazy housewife", with precooked and freeze- dried food and strawberries and sweet corn available year around. "As long as there is this demand, the cost will be higher," McHaney said.

He added that 25 per cent of the convenience food cost increase is created by packagers and processors.

In 1950, 22.2 per cent of thepaycheck was spent for food, compared to 16 per cent in 1972, McHaney noted. A smaller amount of the paycheck during 1972 went for food in the U. S. than in the rest of the world, he said.

In the United States it takes workers 24 minutes of labor to buy one pound of sirloin, while in France it takes 110 minutes and in Russia, 131 minutes, McHaney reported.

Between 1957 and 1972, disposable income in the United States rose 222 per cent. The cost of services rose 250 per cent and cost of other goods rose 213 per cent, McHaney said, while the cost of food rose only 178 per cent.

"The cost of food increased less than any item the average person spends his buck for," McHaney told the group. He added that the farmer has not had a part in this. Food costs in that time rose $35.8 billion and the farmers received only $11.4 billion of this increase, 37 per cent.

McHaney noted that the price of beef did not reach the 1951 price until 1972. He added that, during this same time, farm labor costs two to three times and other costs increased more than two times.

"The price of farm products has been subnormal, but now farmers are getting a fair return," McHaney said. "Housewives have been getting the biggest bargain ever" in those 21 years, he added.

In the 20 years it took to gain back the 1951 beef price, city labor has gone up two and one- half times, McHaney noted. People in the cities are "barking up the wrong tree," he said. "Farmers have gotten the bad image and it's time some voice was raised in defense and explanation."

He noted that during most of the U. S. history, agriculture has been a favored subject and farmers had a great image. "Fifty years ago, to sponsor a bill for agriculture almost automatically meant it would pass," he said. "That time is gone forever. Now farmers are despised by Congress. Farmers are despised by newspaper writers ... and farmers are despised by commentators."

Today the votes are concentrated in the urban areas and politicians listen to them instead of the farm voters, he said.

A farm bill used to be a magic name, now it is a tainted name, McHaney said.

"We as farmers have done practically nothing about this," he added. "The farm industry is one small segment of society which does not finance their own research. The research is paid for by other people through the tax dollar.

"We as farmers must face up to reality," McHaney said. "We need research and must finance more of it."

In Missouri, cotton farmers contribute $1 per bale for cotton research. Anyone who demands it can get this money back. "A greater percentage of cotton farmers in Missouri demanded more money back than any other state," Mchaney said.

He noted that national farm organizations are never all unified behind one program. It is not easy to unify such a large group with such diverse interests, but it needs to be done, he added.

Agriculture needs a strong, unified voice, he said. The farmer's image will get worse if we don't suppor and utilize research and find a spokesman, he added.

Harry S. Littleton, district supervisor of FHA, who introduced the farm families, said that FHA has 1,800 county office units in the U.S. with 8,000 employes. In Missouri there are 268 permanent employes and in this district there are 32 employes, he said. Nationwide, FHA has $5 billion of loans outstanding. FHA is a credit agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Farm Family of the Year is a national contest within the USDA- FHA which starts at the county level.

Hilton Bracy of Portageville, vice president of the Mid- Continent Farmers Association Delta Area Public Affairs, said the farm program now in effect expires this year and it will be a difficult task to get anything close to a working program. He noted a lack of interest in Congress, in the administration and in Southeast Missouri.

Jaycees planning for Stoddard fair

DEXTER — The Dexter Jaycees are in the final stages of planning for the 1973 Jaycee Stoddard County Fair to be held Sept. 17-22, according to Ron Hall, president.

This year the Jaycees plan to construct a new arena and a 40 by 168 foot building to house the cattle and hog exhibits. As a result of joining the Missouri Tractor Pull Association, the Jaycees plan a big tractor pulling contest on Friday night of fair week.

The Jaycees have also secured the David Houston show with Arlene Hardin for two country and western music shows at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Rose City Rides will return to the fair for the third year in a row.

The Stoddard County parade will again kick off fair week on Monday night, Sept. 17.

Chairman for this year's fair is Bill Cryts. Other members of the Jaycee Fair Board include Bill Settles, Denton Musgrave, Roy Minton, Paul Strickland, Glen Tucker and Hall.

"The Boy And The Bronc Buster"

Joe Mannix is asked to investigate the disappearance of two crop- dusting pilots whose employer, Clint Carpenter (Sean Garrison), believes a rival is trying to sabotage his large orange crop, on "Mannix" Sunday, March 25 (7:30— 8:30 PM,) on the CBS Television Network. Paul Kransky directed the Harold Medford-Jerry Thomas script. (Originally presented on the Network on November 19, 1972.)

Mannix agrees to pose as a crop duster in hopes of finding a clue to the mystery. Later, when a murder is committed, the private detective himself is arrested as a suspect.

Missing Crop-Dusting Pilots Sought By "Mannix"

(CONCLUDING HALF) SUNDAY, MARCH 25 (6:30—7:30 P.M., IN COLOR)

Cal Winslow (Earl Holliman) and his young companion, Todd Thompson (Vincent Van Patten), prepare for the Santa Rita Rodeo while Buckshot (Strother Martin), the itinerant peddler, arrives in pursuit of Cal who is accused of murder.

Buckshot alerts the town marshal and Todd overhears the conversation. Todd quickly warns Cal and the two agree to meet that night with supplies for Cal's trip across the badlands.

The entire experience makes a man out of Todd at the young age of 13.

The cast includes Jacqueline Scott as Mary Thompson; Lonny Chapman as Lem Thompson; and Lisa Gerritsen as Jenny. Bernard McEveety directed from a script by Herman Groves.

In his dual role, Landau portrays Dexter Paris, a flamboyant TV cooking show host, and his twin brother, Norman, a conservative banker.

Jeanette Nolan guest- stars as the murdered man's testy housekeeper and Tim O'Connor appears as Robert Hathaway, the family attorney.

The drama was written by Steven Bocho and Pater Allan Fields from a story by Jackson Gillis, Richard Levinson and William Link. Robert Butler directed.

Woodrow Wilson's Painful Choice On

"You Are There"

Sunday, March 25

"Ordeal of a President," the re- creation of the dramatic sequence of events which led to President Woodrow Wilson's reluctant decision to involve the United States in World War I, will be rebroadcast in "You Are There" Sunday, March 25 (4:00— 4:30 PM,) on the CBS Television Network. (Originally presented on the Network on September 8, 1971.)

The episode focuses on March 2, 1917, when the events leading to America's involvement in the war began. On that day, newspapers around the country published the purported contents of the Zimmerman telegram, in which Germany proposed an alliance with Mexico and promised to help her regain lost territory on United States soil.

NBC-TV's 'Escape':

Rebroadcast of "The Goalkeeper Also Lives On Our Street"

March 31

The universal tale of a boy's dream of glory-- in this case, winning an ice hockey game-- forms the basis for "The Goalkeeper Also Lives on Our Street," a Czechoslovakian motion picture to be rebroadcast on "The CBS Children's Film Festival" Saturday, March 31 (12 Noon– 1:00 PM,) on the CBS Television Network. (Originally broadcast on the Network on March 10, 1968.)

Burr Tillstrom's Kukla, Fran and Ollie with Fran Allison are hosts of "The CBS Children's Film Festival."

NBC-TV's 'The Little People': "Sean Meets Double X-7"

Friday, March 30

A 10- year- old with a super imagination infiltrates Dr. Sean's (Brian Keith) office under the disguise of a secret agent (Double X- 7), causing pandemonium as he makes things disappear-- until Sean calls in his own "agent." Brian Keith and Shelley Fabares are series stars.

Kenny Phelps (Michael Morgan), in his fantasy world, figures Dr. Sean's office as enemy headquarters and he proceeds to disrupt the routine by stealing a young patient's balloon, snatching an employee's sandwich, and finally putting tranquilizers in the pineapple punch. When Sean finally catches Double Z- 7, he puts his own imagination to work and brings the whole merry caper to an end.

"Talking With A Giant"

Saturday, March 31

11:30 - 12:00 P.M. , In Color

Tony Randall is the "giant" guest discussing the topic "Will The Real Me Please Stand Up." (Repeat of Jan. 6, 1973.)

With Randall are teen- agers Janet Broderick and Jon Rucker. They explore such questions as "who am I?", "who would I like to be?", "can I make my own future, or will others shape me?" and "whom do I admire?"

The Show You'll Never See!

"Movie Orgy - Part II"

NEW YORK (AP) — The television program listing says: "Movie Orgy (Part II). More memories of a thousand hours of TV idiocy and a hundred Saturday matinees."

You'll never see the show on your commercial or public television station. But it's probably playing four and five times a day on scores of college and university closed-circuit systems.

It's part of a collection of videotape programs put together by a small New York company, the Video Tape Network, which aims the package strictly at the college and university student.

The company, in business three years now, currently has 234 schools as "affiliates," according to John S. Lollos, a VTN vice president and one of the company's 16 full-time staff members.

Lollos, who was director of program promotion for the NBC Television network until he quit four years ago, got the idea for his closed-circuit corporation from darkened television sets, oddly enough.

He was touring colleges campuses with "Groove Tube," a privately produced videotape satire of commercial television that he was leasing for use on closed-circuit campus television systems.

"As I looked around the campuses, I saw nothing but dark sets," he said. "They weren't being played."

He said he knew from his network experience there was a sizeable college audience — among others — that commercial television didn't reach because it was geared to mass viewing tastes.

"From our 'Groove Tube' experience, we found that a lot of people were very turned on by specialized television," he said. "And they kept saying, 'How do we get more shows?'"
